'QUAKES ROCKING SAN FRANCISCO

Bermuda Statement Delayed

TUCKER'S TOWN, Bermuda (UP)— Disagreement over how best to defend Western Europe against Communism may delay a joint statement by President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, British sources said today.

The highly secret defense talks centered around Britain's hopes to withdraw a substantial amount of troops from Germany and coordinate more closely its nuclear weapons and guided missiles program with the United States.

They were scheduled to end Friday but were carried over to this morning.

Plans Possibly Incomplete

This led British sources to believe that the British and American leaders still were some distance away from agreement on how best to put up an Anglo-American shield in Western Europe against the threat of Soviet expansion.

They said it would delay the drafting of the joint policy communique by Mr. Eisenhower and Macmillan and it may not be made public until Sunday.

Some diplomatic sources said the two principals were cordial but did not see eye to eye specifically on pulling British troops out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to cut down on Britain's defense budget.

President Leaving Sunday

In any case, there was no change in plans for President Eisenhower to leave for Washington Sunday after attending church services at the U.S. Air Force Base at Kindley Field.

It had not been announced up to Friday night whether he would fly home or return the way he came aboard the U.S. Navy guided missile ship Canberra.

The conference had come to no final conclusions on the Middle East situation up to Friday night. Mr. Eisenhower and Macmillan decided to hold off on this pending reception of a report from U.S. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on his visit to Cairo.

Two major elements which have emerged from the conference are the way the President and prime minister took to each other personally and the U.S. promise to join the military committee of the Baghdad Pact.

If important defense decisions are made they may well be so hush-hush they will not be disclosed fully.

Official U.S. spokesmen made it clear the United States would not be bound to mutual defense clauses in the Baghdad Pact and its participation would be confined wholly to combatting Communism.

He is an active member of numerous organizations at the school.

Large Air-sea Search on for Missing Plane

TOKYO (UP)— The largest Far East air-sea search since the Korean War criss-crossed 70,000 miles of the Pacific today but reported no success in its hunt for a missing C97 with 67 Americans aboard.

Planes and ships investigated report after report of objects which might be connected with the missing plane. All turned out "negative."

Officers at Johnson Air Base air rescue headquarters here said privately it was doubtful the four-engined Stratocruiser was able to land on the storm-tossed waters Friday without smashing to bits and killing all on board.

Officially, however, they announced that the "search will go on until every scrap of information has been checked out."

Weary crews kept their planes in the air until lack of fuel drove them back to their bases. Long lines of volunteers formed at bases all over Japan to act as "scanners" for the search craft.

A total of 66 planes from Alaska, Hawaii, Guam, Okinawa, Korea and Japan took part in the giant operation along with a fleet of surface vessels.

Debate On Taxes Expected

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Republican - controlled General Assembly plans to complete passage of the GOP $995-million tax package next week to help finance the state for the next two years.

Spirited debate was expected in the House Monday when the Republicans bring up legislation to continue the sales tax at 3 per cent instead of permitting it to drop to 2 per cent May 31. The House previously approved the tax bill, but will have to concur on Senate amendments spelling out exemptions for public utilities, manufacturers and shipbuilders.

The amended tax legislation cleared the Senate over heated Democratic objections, 27 - 22. House Republicans expect little difficulty in concurrence once a vote is called because of their 126 to 83 majority in that chamber.

The remainder of the tax package is spread between the two chambers, but GOP leaders said they hoped to put them all on Gov. George M. Leader's desk by mid-week. The package, together with taxes already on the books, is estimated by the Republicans to put $1.5-billion in the General Fund.

Tax Bills

Here is the tax package picture with GOP estimated yields:

—Extend the 3 per cent sales tax without the stamp plan method of collection ($480 to $500-million). Concurrence in the House of Senate amendments expected Monday.

—Reenact the 14 mill gross receipts tax on public utilities ($32-million). Approved in both chambers without amendments and expected to go to the governor Monday.

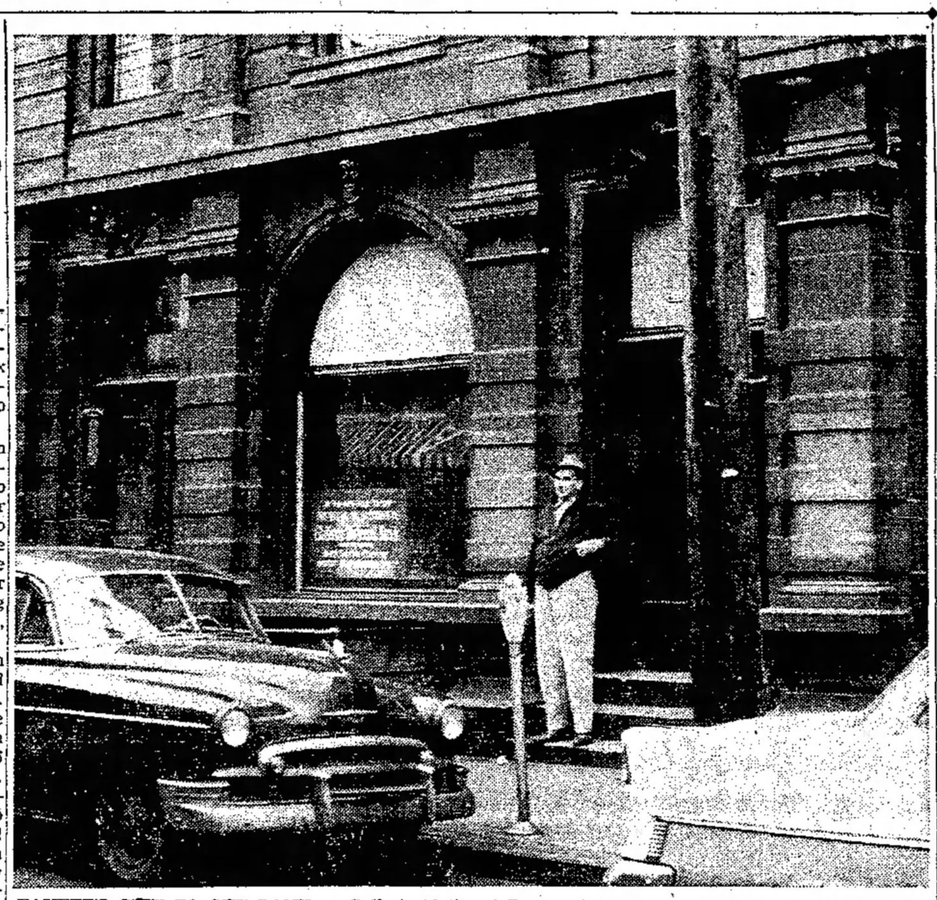
—Reenact the five cent per package cigaret tax with the "extra" penny emergency levy going into the General Fund ($111.5-million). No amendments offered and Senate approval expected.

—Reenact the 1 per cent real estate transfer tax ($41.5-million). In the House for concurrance of minor Senate amendments.

—Reenact the 6 per cent corporate net income tax ($330-million). Ready for Senate passage with minor amendments and would go to House for concurrance.

Senate Republicans also have ready for passage legislation reenacting the five cent per gallon gasoline tax and knocking out the one cent "flood emergency" levy. However, the Democratic minority said it would battle to retain the additional cent imposed in 1955 to help finance a $720-million state highways building and maintenance program.

House leaders predicted legislation for a joint House-Senate investigation of the Highways Department and its road building operation would clear the chamber Wednesday. The bill would create a 10-member commission armed with subpena powers and a $100,000 appropriation.



FAYETTE CITY TO GET BANK — Gallatin National Bank will open a branch office in Fayette City on April 8, giving the community its first banking institution since 1927. It will be located in the building shown above at 212 Main street.

Fayette City to Get Branch Office of Bank on April 8

When the Gallatin National Bank opens its branch office in Fayette City on April 8, it will make the first time in 30 years the community has had a banking institution. The branch will be located at 212 Main street.

Paul Malone, president of Gallatin Bank, said the "establishment of the new banking facilities is a direct result of the progressiveness of the Fayette City people themselves."

He said the program to obtain a bank for the community has been the objective of its leading citizens. This group circulated petitions and presented them to the banking institution, stating that a bank would be actively supported by the community.

Pledges Active Part

After the bank made preliminary investigations, Malone said "it has been the opinion of the Gallatin management that the progressive spirit of the Fayette City people, coupled with the long-range economic potential of the area, warrant the finest kind of banking service.

"Evidence of this progress, in the opinion of the bank's management, is seen in the establishment of the community center, baseball field and street resurfacing program, as well as future plans of the community."

The president said the bank plans to take an active part in Fayette City affairs.

Establishment of the new office will bring complete banking facilities, including savings accounts, checking accounts, safe deposit boxes, auto financing, appliance financing, personal loans, mortgage loans, and business loans to the borough. All deposits in the bank will be insured to the amount of $10,000.

With headquarters in Uniontown, Gallatin National has offices in Brownsville, Connellsville, Dawson, Jefferson, New Salem, Perryopolis, Point Marion and Republic.

Based on 1956 year-end deposits of more than $57,000,000, it recently was ranked as the 24th largest bank in Pennsylvania, exceeded in size in Western Pennsylvania only by five banks in Pittsburgh, two in McKeesport and two in Erie. The Gallatin policy of community banking thus makes efficient "big bank" service conveniently available to smaller communities.

The Fayette City office will open for business Monday morning, April 8, and an open house, to which all area residents and their families are invited, will be held Saturday, April 6, from 1 to 9 p. m.

Stieska Draws First Place on Primary Ballot

John R. Stieska, whom is opposing the reelection of Mayor Hugo J. Parente, yesterday drew first place on the ballot for the May 21 primary battle.

The drawings for positions were held yesterday morning at the Westmoreland County courthouse in Greensburg. Only Democrats are seeking offices in this year's primary fight in Monessen.

In the Councilmanic race, John Harhai's name will be first on the ballot, followed by Stephen Sinchak, incumbents John Molnar and David Victoria and William Snyder. A sixth candidate, John Dyky, withdrew from the Council campaign shortly after drawing a notch above Snyder. The latter automatically moved up.

Incumbent James Tucci drew the No. 1 position in the race for City Controller. First Ward Alderman Manuel Monios is second and Kenneth McNaughton third.

Dr. G. L. Trilli drew the first spot in his fight against the reelection of City Controller John Spielman.

The seven candidates for school board drew in this order: Robert Wojtkowski, Dr. Joseph Dudas, Sr., John Kerekes, Emil Beck, Anthony Todaro, Clifford Learnard and Michael Stima. Pierre Luti, a former school director, has withdrawn from the campaign.

James LaCarte drew top spot in the Third Ward alderman scuffle. John Sucevic is second and John Woods third.

Perry Township Candidates File

Gino Ugolini, Democrat, and Ezra S. Pike, Republican, have no opposition for road supervisor of Perry Township in the May 21 primary.

In the race for justice of the peace, Democrat W. J. Radisajec is unopposed while Primo Tonozzi and Henry Molcan are the Republican candidates.

Only Democrats are seeking the two positions on the School Board. They are Peter Robotini, Thomas Havadich, J. R. Palonder, S. W. Rider, Ted Welling and S. J. Migrock.

Egypt Proposes Suez 'Users Association'

CAIRO (UP) — Egypt will propose a Suez Canal "users' association" made up of interested private companies to help plan the development of the waterway, informed sources said today.

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser is outlining the detailed Egyptian plan for operating the canal to United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold at their meeting today, the sources said.

The sources said, however, that Egypt is not willing to accept a "users' association composed of governments as proposed by the West.

They said it must be an association of private interests such as shipping companies and oil firms whose vessels use the 101-mile canal.

The West proposed a "users' association" of governments during the talks on the canal's future last fall. Such a Western "Suez Canal Users' Association," with 14 governments as members, has been set up and maintains headquarters in London.

The sources gave an authoritative account of Egypt's position on the canal as Nasser and Hammarskjold met at a government rest house on a Nile River island north of Cairo to discuss the future of the waterway.

Heavy Damage, But no Deaths; People Scared

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Another strong temblor shook earthquake jittery San Francisco today, bringing more property damage and fires and frightening residents.

The latest shock struck San Francisco at 3:13 a.m. (EST). It was the third strongest of the more than 50 which have rocked the bay area since early Friday and apparently caused a three-alarm apartment house fire.

About 50 scantily clad tenants of the three story building fled to the street while firemen extinguished the blaze. Within a half an hour they were back in the frame structure, fearing only another jolt.

The fire was caused by a gas line broken during the quake six minutes earlier.

Damage was expected to run into the millions from the more than 50 minor and serious shocks. However, an accurate figure will probably take weeks to determine.

Highway damage in one 400-foot area along Lake Merced was estimated by the County Road Department at $30,000. Throughout San Francisco and Daly City foundations were cracked.

In Daly City, a three-month-old boy barely missed death when his grandmother wheeled him from in front of the fireplace in the family home. Five minutes later the fireplace collapsed.

In all, about 31 persons have been treated for minor injuries. There were no serious injuries or deaths. Most serious was a woman with a fractured foot.

Check Gas Leaks

Meanwhile, the fire department urged all residents to check for gas leaks, cracks in chimney flues and broken water lines.

The smallest discernible gas or water leak must be reported and repaired immediately, the department said.

The latest temblor shook buildings at 3:13 a.m. EST, and registered a magnitude of 4.25 on the Richter Scale of 10. The strongest quake Friday registered a magnitude of 5.5 on the Richter Scale, which measures the force of earthquakes.

Friday's violent upheavals, worst since 1906, began after a shift in the San Andreas Fault, a crack in the earth's crust beneath San Francisco.

There are few persons who remember the disaster of 1906 which killed 452 and did half a billion dollars worth of damage — and there are few who will forget the daylong series of over 50 quakes that caused near panic — but no loss of life Friday.

Friday, families huddled in streets in frightened groups as houses were twisted and furniture was smashed. But as the area still shuddered with occasional movement, over 20,000 of them packed a baseball park in the center of town Friday night to see the Boston Red Sox play the San Franciso Seals.

There was no thought of baseball 12 hours earlier, however.

A series of small shocks began at 11:30 a.m. EST, topped by a vicious and sustained 5.5 temblor shortly before noon. Skyscrapers whipped back and forth as panic-stricken office workers fled into the streets.

In the residential section of the city near the ocean, where the

Richter Scale Measures Force Of Earthquakes

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The Richter Scale, which measures the force of earthquakes such as those which have jolted San Francisco, has no maximum.

Informally, the figure 10 is used as a top, but only as a frame of reference. Theoretically, quakes with a magnitude of 100 could be recorded on the sensitive device.

The scale was invented by Dr. Charles Richter of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

It operates on a logarithmic basis. This means a magnitude of two is 10 times as great as a reading of one; a reading of three is 10 times as strong as two and 100 times as strong as one. Four is 10 times as strong a three and so forth.

Friday's most violent shock was recorded at 5.5 on the scale. The 1906 quake, which started the disastrous San Francisco fire, was 8.25 in intensity. One early today registered 4.25.

The most powerful quakes ever recorded have been about 8.6, according to Dr. Perry Byerly, University of California seismologist.

The earthquakes in the Aleutians recently ranged from seven to eight, but were not disastrous because the area is relatively uninhabited.

Man Cleared In Robbery

BUTLER, Pa. (UP)— Fred Burdell, 47, charged with taking part in the $115,000 robbery of a Butler coal operator's home here in 1952, was found innocent Friday night by a Butler County jury.

Burdell, former North Braddock policeman, was found innocent about 8:32 p.m. after the jury had deliberated about five hours. He was acquitted on a robbery charge and a charge of aggravated assault.

When the jury announced its verdict a cheer went up from a small group in the crowded courtroom. Judge Clyde S. Shumaker immediately rapped for order.

Burdell then thanked the jury and broke into sobs.

Fayette Judge Candidate Quits

Fayette County Treasurer Joseph P. Matuschak announced last night his withdrawal as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Judge of Orphans Court.

His withdrawal finds the incumbent, President Judge Ross S. Matthews, Democrat, now being opposed by James A. Reilly and Anthony Calvacante, who has filed on both the Republican and Democratic tickets.

Only Democrats File in Township

Only Democrats are seeking offices in Washington Township in the May 21 primary.

Charles Summers, Jerry Weiss and George Wenick are in the battle for road supervisor. John Krett is being opposed by Guy Winn for tax collector, and Marie S. Gage, John Kasaba, Stephen Koslasky and Michael Metrosky are school board opponents.

FLAG POLE INSTALLED AT POST OFFICE — A 40-foot flag pole was erected yesterday in front of the Post Office at Seventh street and Donner avenue, replacing the pole that adorned the top of the structure for many years until taken down during last fall's roof refinishing program. Postmaster Edward Januszewski said plans call for the complete repainting and repairing of the interior and exterior of the building.

Catholic Fund Drive Off to Good Start

A drive for funds to finance the construction of a Catholic high school in Carroll Township has produced $200,000 in less than a week.

Msgr. Joseph A. Kushner, pastor of St. Dominic, Donora, who is campaign moderator, predicted today the drive would exceed the $750,000 goal set by Bishop John F. Dearden, of Pittsburgh.

"The large amount raised in such a short time is ample evidence that our drive will be a complete success," said Msgr. Kushner.

Practically all the money raised to date represents memorial contributions. The actual door-to-door solicitation of Catholic families has yet to start.

Msgr. Kushner revealed that 1,500 men from the 14 participating parishes have volunteered for the project.

These men will work under chairmanship of P. E. Sance, vice-president of operations, Pittsburgh Steel Co. They are scheduled to meet next week for training instructions.

The solicitation of all parishioners in the participating parishes will get underway after the solemn opening of the drive on April 5. The ceremony will take place in St. Jerome Church in Charleroi with Bishop Dearden in charge.

The proposed high school will be located midway between Charleroi, Donora and Monongahela. It will cost in excess of one million dollars and will accommodate both boys and girls.

Reportedly, the Bishop will match the drive total with money drawn from a special Diocesan school fund.

Construction is scheduled to begin shortly. Tentative plans call for the school to be ready in time for the 1958-59 term.

Hilltop Fire School To Start Tuesday

The first in a series of fire school sessions will be held Tuesday evening at the Hilltop fire station, it was announced today by Bill Orsilli, Hilltop fire chief.

Scheduled to begin at 7 p. m., the sessions will be held every Tuesday and Thursdays for nine weeks.

More Basements Are Being Built; Can Be Used as Hobby Rooms

The increased amount of leisure time which Americans now enjoy, plus prosperity which has raised living standards to new heights, are both responsible for the sharp upturn in the number of homes now being built with basements, says the Better Basement Institute.

It cites recently released figures by the Bureau of Labor Statistics showing that more homes now are being built with basements than at any time since the start of World War II. "There are three major reasons for this increase," the Institute declares.

"Americans in all part of the country are demanding more and more living space. For example, the percentage of new homes with less than 1 000 square feet of floor space is now half what it was in 1954. The typical American family is getting larger — and needs room to grow in. It is only natural that it should explore the advantage of basement space, which generally can be provided for one-tenth the cost of equivalent space above ground. This basement space can be used for family recreation room, laundry, workshop, even in some cases for bedrooms

"The second reason is that Americans now spend more time at home together than at any period in 100 years. Thanks to the five-day week, Dad can be home with the family for long week-ends puttering around the house and in the basement playroom, workshop or hobby area.

"Thirdly, the average person is more prosperous and owns more things. Skis, lawn furniture, boats, other seasonal hobby equipment all must be stored somewhere, and the basement is the logical place."

Basements are also being planned by architects more efficiently than ever before, the Institute finds.

"It is no longer unusual to find a basement pre-planned to be as cheerful, livable and useful as any other room in the house," the Institute says.

"When modern homes are designed, alert architects bear in mind that basements should be accessible, and so provision is made for an outside entrance which will enable youngsters to use the playroom without disturbing the rest of the house and will also make it possible to use the basement for storage of big items like boats, lawn tables and chairs, etc. The outside steps from the basement can be permanently protected with a double-leaf steel hatchway cover, which is both weather-proof and burglar-proof.

"Another factor which modern architects keep in mind is the importance of adequate light and air. Two basement windows are often used instead of one, to give the long, high window look so popular in modern design.

"More attention is also being paid to the proper waterproofing of foundations — a precaution which is inexpensive while the house is being built but which will insure a permanent dry, livable basement."

Children Need Room of Own; Much Happier

Children are much happier if they have a pleasant room of their own. This is especially true of junior and senior high school students.

Young people get a sense of independence and self confidence if they have their own domain where they can study, read and relax alone Their school work profits any they will be more willing to stay home.

Here are tips from a leading architect on how to dress up a young person's room Select one wall for a complete set of built-ins which should contain study desk, book shelves, and storage for hobby gear.

You can build these units in any size if you use some easily worked softwood like west coast hemlock You may wish to convert an entire wall into storage, which in addition to the above mentioned, would include wardrobe clothes closet and a chest of drawers for linens and other wearing apparel.

Now, if these well tailored wood units are finished in clear varnish the wonderful texture, color and grain of the wood helps create an atmosphere of well - being Or some may wish to use one of the modern stains, which will still show the grain and texture to advantage.

'Storm Cellar' Still in Use In the Midwest

Many homes are still being built in midwestern states with the idea of adding an old-fashioned "storm cellar" in the rear yard, reports the Better Basement Institute.

"The reason for the storm cellar is understandable enough," the Institute says, "because of the prevalence of wind storms and other natural catastrophes. Modern construction methods make it more desirable, however, to bring the storm cellar into the house.

"Atomic bomb tests by the Civil Defense Administration have proved that the basement is the safest part of the house. Basement space has the advantage of being usable the year-'round.

When it has an outside entrance, it can be reached from the grounds as well as from the house. In addition, the outside steps from the basement shelter can be covered with a double-leaf steel hatchway which provides protection in any emergency."

Direct Grade Is Better from The Basement

When planning an outside entrance from your basement, you will save money and add to your convenience if you can walk up the steps to grade directly from your basement door, instead of having the stairs running along the side of the house, suggests the Better Basement Institute.

"If you can walk straight up to your yard from the basement, without making any turns, you will find it a great deal easier to carry plywood sheets, canoes, lawn furniture, etc. and other bulky items into the basement for seasonal storage," the Institute says. Generally less concrete or concrete blocks are required to build a stairway formed this way.

"In addition, standard equipment made for outside entrances is easier to install when the stairway is at right angles to the foundation wall. For example, steel hatchways made to cover the outside steps from the basement can be installed in ten minutes on a new house when the stairs lead directly up from the basement floor.

The hatchway can also be installed over a staircase parallel to the foundation wall but this may require special procedures and longer installation times."

Wood Brings Luck

Knocking on wood is a European-inherited superstition intended to bring good luck. Superstition or not, women want plenty of wood in their new homes (U S Census Bureau says 86% want homes featuring wood.)

HERE'S HOW...

MAKE A LINEN CLOSET

A linen closet that can be modified as a clothes closet can be readily constructed by the home craftsman.

The side panels, doors and top piece are cut from 1 by 14-inch lumber. The interior shelves are made of 1 by 12-inch lumber. The bottom shelf is a piece of 1 by 14-inch lumber planed to fit. A 1 by 6 is used for the baseboard.

The bottom of the front edge of the sides is notched 5½ inches for the baseboard. Mark the location of the shelves on the side panels 12 inches apart on centers. Mark the location of the hinges on the sides and doors. Recess the hinges.

Cleats on the doors are used to strengthen the assembly.

Assemble the project and add the door stops, catches and knobs.

Plenty of Valves Are Needed in the Home

Plenty of clean-outs. Plenty of valves.

It pays to provide for both when planning the plumbing system for a new house.

This is a good example of how thoughtful advance planning will pay good dividends for years to come in lower repair bills and freedom from the annoyance which comes from having the plumbing system out of commission temporarily.

Clean-out plugs should be provided in the waste and drainage pipes every time there is a sharp turn in the direction of the piping This is where stoppage is most likely to occur.

Providing for the installation of an adequate number of clean-out plugs involves only a nominal additional cost when the house is under construction Failure to provide for them, however, may result in great inconvenience and considerable expense in the future, should stoppages occur.

In the same way an adequate number of valves will prove to be a great convenience There should be a set of valves for each supply circuit to the various fixtures Then when it is necessary to make repairs anywhere in the house, it will not be necessary to shut off the water supply for the entire house at the meter or master control valve. In addition to the valves on the branch lines, or risers there should also be individual stops under the lavatories, under the sink, under the bathtubs and for the laundry tray.

Provision of adequate clean-out plugs and supply valves is one of the marks of a quality plumbing system, says the National Association of Plumbing Contractors. In checking the bids of two or more contractors on a proposed installation, the owner should satisfy himself that both have figured on the same quantity and quality of materials

Remove Wax, Dirt Before Refinishing

A complete refinishing is no always necessary when limited areas of floors become dingy Often the smudge is caused by dirt imbedded in the wax The floor boards may be in good shape

In this case, the wax and dirt can be removed by a petroleum base solvent A fresh coat of wax will be needed after cleaning

Take Good Care of Your New Dishwasher

The dishwasher industry will sell more than half a million units in 1957 or an increase of 25 per cent over 1956, the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau predicts.

Retail sales of dishwashers for 1957 will be around $150,000,000 it is estimated

The successful operation of a dishwasher depends on two factors, the Bureau points out. One is the right detergent in the correct quantity and the other is an adequate supply of hot water at the proper temperature.

It has been found that many of the complaints about dishwashers are due either to the use of a detergent contrary to the recommendations of the manufacturer of the dishwasher or an inadequate amount of hot water at a temperature that will not properly sterilize glassware, dishes, and table and kitchen cutlery.

A dishwasher has many advantages. Not only will it save labor, but it will provide cleaner dishes than manual washing and drying with a cloth.

A dishwasher, however, cannot function properly unless it has an adequate supply of hot water at the right temperature. Householders, before having a dishwasher installed, are advised to check with plumbing contractors to be sure that the water heater is adequate in capacity for the additional load. In recent years there has been a trend toward the installation of larger water heaters to take care of the steadily increasing demand for hot water.

Homebuilding in Need of Money, Levitt Claims

WASHINGTON (UP)—William J. Levitt, head of a Pennsylvania home building firm, said today the homebuilding industry is "dying . . . for want of money and for want of credit."

He said in testimony prepared for a Senate Banking subcommittee that if Congress "does not take action—positive, direct and immediate action—then we will drag the rest of the economy down to ruin with us

Levitt, president of William Levitt & Sons, Inc., of Levittown, Pa., described conditions in the housing industry as "catastrophic."

"For almost two years—ever since the administration decided that a little taste of deflation would be good for us—I have seen dry rot take root in our industry," he said.

Saying the industry has not "hit bottom yet" Levitt continued:

"The truth is that the plight of my industry is so unimaginably awful, it would be impossible to overstate the case If anything, I have been too optimistic, like everybody else"

Levitt, whose firm also developed Levittown, N.Y., said a poll of 150 major builders across the country showed that only three or four "had no serious complaints." He read from several of the replies reporting conditions to be bad.

Having Trouble With Rats in Feed?

Most farmers have occasional trouble with rodent-damaged poultry feed. This trouble can be avoided if the feed is kept in a covered metal container such as a galvanized steel refuse can.

Rodent-proof and fireproof, the container makes a perfect storage bin for bulk feed.

Varied Programs Presented By Rostraver Grange Group

The Rostraver Grange met recently at the Grange Hall with 75 persons attending.

Leslie Cunningham was in charge and led group singing. Ewing Trickett gave the treasurer's report. Two members are in the hospital, Alfretta at Columbia Hospital, Williamsburg, and Thomas Rankin in Pittsburgh Hospital, Pittsburgh.

Following group singing, with Mrs. Ralph Knight accompanist, and a solo by Susan Maras, a skit called "Gay Nineties" was presented by David Sholl, who also rendered several harmonica solos. Harry Byers conducted brain teasers. Special music was presented by Junior High girls, with Helen Foster singing a solo.

Eleanor Stark, 4-H winner, told about her prize winning trip last summer and spoke on 4-H work. She also displayed her awards: a crown, evening gown and scrap book. Bill Stoneman, the male winner, is now in service.

Following a pantomine by Barbara Maras, Leslie Cunningham presented the big moments of the Grange and Adolph Crawford gave the history. Lunch was served.

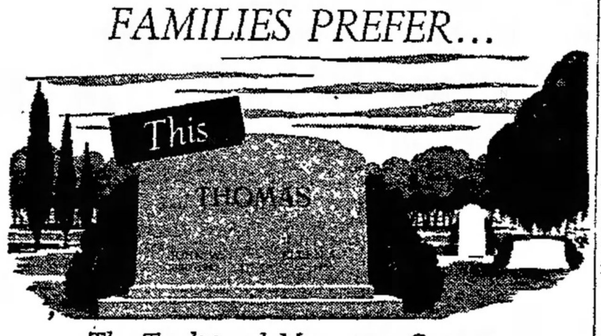
NINE OUT OF TEN FAMILIES PREFER...



The Traditional Monument Cemetery

Most Americans select their family burial plots in traditional cemeteries that allow them the privilege of erecting a monument of marble or granite. Forever beautiful, always visible, it is not only an eternal tribute to the Dead, but an inspiration to the living.

The Cemetery that Forbids Monuments

The park plan cemetery permits only flush metal markers. Devoid of distinction, subject to corrosion, covered with leaves in the Fall and snow in the Winter, the family plot so marked is difficult to find, suffers from monotony. Moreover, for what it costs to mark the average non-monument cemetery plot with individual flat metal markers, you can purchase a beautiful monument of granite or marble.

Rebekah Lodge Reports Are Made at Meeting Thursday

Lady Belle Rebekah Lodge 214 met on Thursday night in the Odd Fellows lodge rooms on State street. Noble Grand Josephine Gearhart was in charge.

Routine reports were given by Mae Nobel, secretary and Mrs. Henrietta Younkin, treasurer.

All the Past Noble Grands who were present were permitted to cast their votes for the Assembly officers.

On April 20 there will be a meeting in Pittsburgh for the selection of directors and Mae Noble was appointed to attend that session as a delegate. Mrs. Gearhart, as noble grand, will also attend.

Mrs. Thelma Free and Mrs. Younkin reported on a meeting they recently attended in Pittsburgh to help plan the annual lawn fete for the benefit of the Home and Orphanage. The members discussed the party they would take in the lawn party and appointed the same committee to attend another meeting on April 28 to make further plans.

The spring District meeting was announced for Monday, April 1 at Point Marion and a delegation of local lodge members will attend. A banquet will highlight the affair and the local women will have a part in the lodge ritual.

Appointed to serve as chairman of the ways and means and social committee for next month was Madge Kegg, chairman and May Mitchell, co-chairman.

After the meeting there was a social hour and the March ways and means and social committee headed by Mrs. Thelma Free and Mrs. Hazel Nichol served the luncheon.

The next meeting will be held on April 4.

Card Club in Dinner Party

A Belle Vernon card club enjoyed a dinner party and evening out instead of holding the usual meeting on Thursday. They had dinner at Twin Coaches and following the serving stayed for the entertainment featuring the McGuire Sisters.

The guests attending along with the club members were Mrs. Kay Olsen and Mrs. Josephine Reitz of Charleroi and Mrs. Margaret Paterline, of Beaver.

Club members present were Mrs. Theresa Bernardo, Mrs. Sophie Rizzutto, Mrs. Mary Lori, Mrs. Mary Nicolette, Mrs. Lill Costantino and Mrs. Margaret Bercini.

In two weeks the club will meet in regular session.

Four Nominated At Moose Lodge

The nominating committee of the Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 209 of Belle Vernon consisting of members, Eugene Weibl, Lou Ceccarelli and Ted Soroka met Wednesday evening and announced the slate of candidates for the next term in office.

William Wisniski, Lou Nogy, Jesse Winters and Andrew Jotko have been nominated for the post of governor.

Unopposed are Michael Soroka for junior governor, Eugene Weibl, prelate; Bernard Wasko, one year trustee; Incumbent Del Luncy for three year trustee and Incumbent Albino Brizzi, treasurer.

Election will be held on Wednesday, April 3.

Moose to Hold Initiation Here

On Sunday evening at 7:30 candidates who have been enrolled during the golden anniversary membership drive that has just ended in the Loyal Order of Moose lodge 209 of Belle Vernon, will be initiated into the order.

Any candidate who has not been initiated may be initiated at this time. The lodge officers will serve as members of the degree team.

Immediately after initiation a dinner prepared by Frank Stringhill is to be served to all members, their families and friends.

A dance will be held from 8 to 11 p. m.

Lenten Classes Here Monday

The third in a series of Lenten study classes will be held in the First Methodist Church on Monday evening at 7:30 under the sponsorship of the Wesleyan Service Guild.

Carol Davenport, president, will be in charge and the teacher of the class will be Mrs. Florence Ames. The subject will be "Paul's Letters".

Members of the local Women's Society of Christian Service, along with the WSCS groups from Monessen First Methodist Church and Fells Methodist Church, will take part. Between 30 and 40 women participate in this activity weekly.

Lewis, Ammons New Members of Central Fire Co.

The Rostraver Central Volunteer Fire Department met Tuesday at Fellsburg Methodist Church with Andy Uram, president, in charge. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by George Kuma.

The group discussed the site of the new fire station but nothing definite was decided. The organization also decided to hold a dance sometime in April as a means of raising money.

Two new members, Hollis Lewis and H. Ammons, were added to the membership.

Uram appointed Ralph Coughenour to assist the membership committee in obtaining new members and to collect delinquent dues.

Mrs. Francis Pasierb is to reserve a place for a bake sale at the coming Rostraver Fair.

The next meeting is set for April 16.

Daffy Club Meets At Braddock Home

Mrs. Mary Braddock, of Lynnwood, was hostess to members of the Daffy Club at her home on Wednesday evening.

Two tables of cards were in play and those receiving high score prizes were Mrs. Elaine Green, Mrs. Helen Serwinski and Mrs. Teff Grados. The floating prize was won by Mrs. Jennie Ciferno.

A social hour followed and luncheon was served. All appointments were in keeping with St. Patrick Day in a green and white color scheme.

Mrs. Helen Serwinski will be next hostess.

Lions Club to Meet on Tuesday

The Belle Vernon Lions Club will meet in regular session next Tuesday evening in the social rooms of the First Christian Church. It will be the first regular session to be held there for several weeks since the club has been busy with the Lions Minstrel, an inter-club meeting and charter night.

Guests of honor at the Tuesday session will be members of the cast of the Minstrel show.

Webster Women To Hold Sea Food Dinner April 6

The Ladies Auxiliary of Webster met Thursday at the fire hall with Vivian Blick president, opening the meeting with the pledge of allegiance and Mary Bentley, chaplain, leading prayer.

Reports were ready by Anna Belle Maglet, recording secretary; Lillian Wilson, treasurer, and Gladys Bentley, financial secretary.

The pig-in-the-poke donated by Frances Dolola was won by Lillian Wilson. Hostesses were Mary Bentley and Kathyrn Bailey. Hostesses for the next meeting will be Laura Boyce and Irene Buck.

The group will hold a sea food supper at the fire hall on April 6 beginning at 5 p. m. The public is invited.

Vernon Canteen Dance Tonight

The regular canteen dance at Vernon Junior High School will be held this evening under the sponsorship of the Bellmarette Band Boosters. The music will be furnished by recordings.

Mrs. James Naccarato, canteen chairman, and members of the sponsoring group will be in charge.

Mrs. Ella Leithold Entertains Club

Mrs. Ella Leithold, of Henry street, was hostess to members of her card club at her home Thursday evening. Two tables of five hundred were in play.

Winning awards were Mrs. Ella Liptrot, Mrs. Ella Leithold and Mrs. Margaret Cope. The special prize was won by Mrs. Betty Hamer.

A guest for the evening was Mrs. Ruth Tiernan.

Luncheon was served and plans made for the next meeting in three weeks with Mrs. Mary Leithold as hostess.

Senior Sodality At Donora Event

A delegation of members of the Senior Sodality of the St. Sebastian R. C. Church recently attended a Day of Recollection in Donora.

Dorothy Luzanski, prefect of the organization, which was only recently organized, was in attendance. The group also plans to take part in other such observances.

Nazarene Church to Hold Special Services

The Church of the Nazarene is announcing special services each evening at the church from March 26 to April 7, with the exception of Saturday.

Herman F. Taylor, of Jerome, a speaker and singer, will be guest. Special music will be offered by the choir.

The annual recall of pastor will be held tomorrow at the morning worship service.

Monessen Pastor Speaks Tomorrow

The Webster Community Service will be held tomorrow at 7.30 p. m. at the Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Lloyd S. Erb, pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Monessen, will be principal speaker.

Mr. Erb is serving his ninth year as pastor of the Monessen church. He formerly served at Dixon, Ill., and Saltsburg, Canonsburg, and Nesquehoning.

More Workers Furloughed at Arnold Plant

ARNOLD, Pa. (UP)— American Window Glass Co. announced today the indefinite furloughing of 60 more workers at its Arnold plant, bringing to 800 the number off the job since December.

Only 150 workers of the original 950-man staff continue at work.

A company spokesman blamed the lay-offs on a drop in foreign orders, curtailment of automobile production and a drop in new housing.

"We are hopeful business conditions will improve soon," the spokesman added.

Mrs. Ella Leithold Entertains Club

Mrs. Ella Leithold, of Henry street, was hostess to members of her card club at her home Thursday evening. Two tables of five hundred were in play.

Winning awards were Mrs. Ella Liptrot, Mrs. Ella Leithold and Mrs. Margaret Cope. The special prize was won by Mrs. Betty Hamer.

A guest for the evening was Mrs. Ruth Tiernan.

Luncheon was served and plans made for the next meeting in three weeks with Mrs. Mary Leithold as hostess.

Senior Sodality At Donora Event

A delegation of members of the Senior Sodality of the St. Sebastian R. C. Church recently attended a Day of Recollection in Donora.

Dorothy Luzanski, prefect of the organization, which was only recently organized, was in attendance. The group also plans to take part in other such observances.

Carl Younkin, of Belle Vernon; Louis Roth, Ross Allen and D. Alterici, of Charleroi, members of Monongahela Valley Barracks 350, World War I Veterans, were guests at Uniontown Barracks installation Thursday night.

The Ladies Auxiliary to Belle Vernon Fire Co. No. 2 will meet on Monday evening in the fire hall.

Harry Robinson, of Broad avenue, who has been spending the winter in Florida will return home next week.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Washington Township Volunteer Fire Co. will meet on Monday evening in the fire hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Baldo Paterline and daughter, Darla, of Beaver, are visiting for the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Felix Lazzari, of Columbus street.

Mrs. Joseph Ambrose has returned to her home in Belle Vernon after being a patient in the Monongahela Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Alice Smith, of Speer street, a patient in the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital, is undergoing tests and observation.

1,200 to Die in '57 Of Electrocution

BERKLEY, Calif. (UP) — Prof. Charles F. Dalziel of the University of California warns that during 1957 nearly 1,200 persons in the nation will die by accidental electrocution, but only about a quarter of these fatalities will be due to lightning.

"Modern electrical appliances are engineered for safety convenience and effciency," he said, "but the public should remember that careless use of such equipment can bring serious and tragic injury."

Atoms Plan Faces Trouble

Program Is Under Fire In Senate

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's atoms-for-peace plan today appeared headed for almost certain difficulties in the Senate.

A number of influential senators who declined use of their names expressed doubts about the program and indicated the Senate will give it a thorough going over before acting on it.

Mr. Eisenhower Friday urged the Senate to approve the U.S. participation in a world-wide program to pool fissionable materials for use in peaceful undertakings. The United States and 79 other nations including Russia have agreed to it.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala), a member of the Foreign Relations Committee which will hold hearings on the program, said publicly it demands the "most serious consideration." Other senafors expressed concern that pooled materials might be diverted to military purposes.

The program previously has come under fire from Sens. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) and John W. Bricker (R-Ohio). Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) has called it a "device by which the United States can be trapped into building up the atomic potential of our enemies."

Other congressional news:

Economy: House Republican leaders charged that a proposed Democratic - backed investigation of the nation's economy might start a recession. The measure authorizing the investigation comes up for a vote next week.

Officers: The Army asked Congress to boost the strength of the cadet corps at West Point and the new Air Force Academy. He called for a 211-man increase at each academy—all to be appointed by the President.

Oil: A House small business subcommittee plans a series of hearings across the nation on business practices of fuel oil and gas suppliers. Subcommittee Chairman James Roosevelt (D-Calif) charged that the practices of some firms are "predatory."

Tanks: The Marine Corps told a House government operations subcommittee that there are "serious deficiencies" in the army's 60-ton M48 tank. The army, which spent $133 million developing the tank in a crash program, said improvements can be made in the tank but it is satisfactory in its present form.

DAG DICKERS WITH NASSER — In Cairo, UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold (right) tries to keep Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser (left) from scrapping the UN's six principles for a Suez canal settlement. Hammarskjold is reportedly fearful that Egypt might touch off another crisis by insisting on reopening the canal on its own terms.

Dag Meeting with Nasser on Island

By UNITED PRESS

Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt entered a crucial negotiating session on an island in the Nile.

Hammarskjold was counting on his methods of "secret diplomacy" to accomplish what years of bloodshed and public debate have failed to do—lay the cornerstone for friendship between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

The U.N. chief and Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi left Cairo today to start the meeting in the privacy of a well-guarded house on a Nile River island outside the city. Nasser was to join them.

Informed sources said Hammarskjold's legal adviser, Constantine Stravropoulos, called for verbatim records of the U.N. Security Council debates of 1948 and 1949 on the Arab-Israeli dispute and was busy studying them today.

In advance of the meeting neutral diplomatic sources said India's V. K. Krishna Menon had gotten Nasser to soften somewhat his demands for complete and absolute control over the Suez Canal and collection of shipping tolls.

No Official Confirmation

But because of Hammarskjold's news blackout there was no official confirmation or denial of this.

There was no official indication of what Hammarskjold planned to do next.

But diplomats said he would have to go to Israel for talks with Premier David Ben-Gurion to get counter-concessions if he gets the Egyptian to give in on any of the key issues involved in the dispute.

Peace Hinges On Talks

If Hammarskjold fails to bring Nasser and Ben-Gurion nearer, eventual war in the Middle East would be almost a certainty, diplomats said.

Jeopardizing the possibility that Hammarskjold could get new concessions from Egypt were new Egyptian allegations of Israeli misdeeds during their occupation of the Gaza Strip.

Friday the Egyptians accused Israeli troops of slaying 36 Arabs and burying the bodies in a mass grave during the early part of the three-month occupation.

An Egyptian officer in Gaza today charged Isreal had moved its frontier up to 200 yards inside Gaza territory in the north and east.

'Quake

quake centered, houses twisted on their foundations, gas and water lines burst, and sections of the scenic coast highway dropped into the Pacific.

No buildings collapsed, and the 30-odd persons hurt received only minor injuries. But reports from a 200-mile stretch of northern and central California indicated the overall damage would run well into the millions of dollars.

The mid-day quake dumped cornices onto the sidewalks; shattered scores of plate glass windows; literally junked the merchandise of several supermarkets and opened a serious crack in a one-million gallon reservoir which caused some 1500 residents to be temporarily evacuated from the homes in Daly City, just south of here.

The Golden Gate Bridge, world's largest single suspension span, "galloped like a bucking bronco" and its 65-story towers swayed from side to side as bridge painters clung for dear life to avoid being thrown to their death.

Women screamed in the streets as they saw the earthquake-proof skyscrapers swaying back and forth over them. Schools were immediately evacuated, with pupils marching out in orderly fire drill fashion, and a number were ordered closed pending a full inspection of possible damage.

The quake was felt violently in the United Press bureau, located atop the six-story San Francisco News Building.

Hanging light fixtures lashed back and forth and loose objects tumbled from shelves and filing cabinets. Staff members who were standing at the time were forced to grab for support to avoid being thrown down.

Twin Autos Cause Tizzy In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Twin automobiles had police and two motorists in a tizzy Friday night.

The confusion started when Anthony Gigliotti of Wilkinsburg reported his car had been stolen from a parking lot at an East Liberty supermarket.

But hardly had the missing car report been broadcast over police radio when Gigliotti spotted his car at a nearby service station.

Apologizing to officers for what he thought was his absent mindedness, Gigliotti went to the car and loaded it with groceries. But attendant Albert Caligiuri protested.

The car, Caligiuri said, belonged to Charles Levy, a clerk at the supermarket. It was brought in earlier for a greasing and oil change.

Gigliotti persisted and produced registration cards to prove the car was his.

But Levy was just as insistent the car was his — until he went into the lot and located his own car where he had parked it.

The men, it turned out, owned similar model and color cars. And the ignition keys were interchangeable.

County Awards Contracts for Election Ballots

Contracts have been awarded by the Westmoreland County Commissioners for the furnishing of supplies and ballots for the May 21 primary election.

In addition, contracts have been awarded for the furnishing of equipment for the county road department.

The William G. Johnston Co., Pittsburgh, was awarded the contract for furnishing miscellaneous election supplies with a bid of $2,374.

The Henry Printing Co., Greensburg, was the successful bidder for primary election ballots and voters' certificates. The successful bidder submitted a price of $28.90 per thousand for 210,000 sample and official ballots and $3 per thousand for 153,000 voters' certificates.

The commissioners awarded the contract for a 10 to 12 ton road roller for the county to the Brinker Supply Co., Pittsburgh whose bid was $8,400.

The Treenwald Auto Co., New Kensington, was the successful bidder for a "Y" Plate dump truck at a price of $5,096. The trade-in allowance was $2,698.

Greensburg Motor Co. was successful in its bid of $681 for a two-door Plymouth sedan for the road department, allowing $1,749.45 for a trade-in of a county car.

Pay Increase Heads Off RR Labor Crisis

LONDON (CP)— A substantial pay raise headed off a railway strike today and labor officials predicted Britain's worst labor crisis in 30 years will end next week.

The prediction came despite the fact one-million engineering workers were scheduled to walk off their jobs today, with 1.5-million more due to join them by April 6.

The threatened railroad strike was averted when the nationalized British Transport Commission agreed Friday to grant a five per cent pay raise — half what they asked.

Dockworkers at Southampton, who struck because Royal Navy tugs helped get the liner Queen Mary on its way to New York Wednesday decided to go back to work.

Negotiations were scheduled to start Monday in a shipyard strike which started seven days ago and involves some 200,000 workers.

Welfare Fund Is Criticized

PITTSBURGH (UP)— An Allegheny County Medical Society spokesman charged today the United Mine Workers Welfare Fund "has jeopardized the health of its members. . .in its attempt to control" New Kensington's Citizen Hospital.

Dr. William A. Barrett, editor of the society's weekly Bulletin, said the UMW Fund "deprived miners and their families of the use" of the hospital in its fight to get fund-approved doctors admitted to the staff.

The result, he said, is "citizens who have contributed to the erection and support of their own hospital are, in effect, locked out of it by their own Welfare Fund."

Court Turns Down Utility Rate Review

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The state Supreme Court has refused to review a rate increase of $3,015,697 allowed the Manufacturer's Light & Heat Co. last year.

The Public Utility Commission allowed the increase Jan. 3, 1956. Acting on appeals, the Superior Court last December reduced the rate request and ordered small refunds to consumers.

Separate appeals by the city of Pittsburgh and Manufacturers, whose original request was reduced 30 per cent, were denied by the Supreme Court Friday.

Fayette Thieves Steal Copper

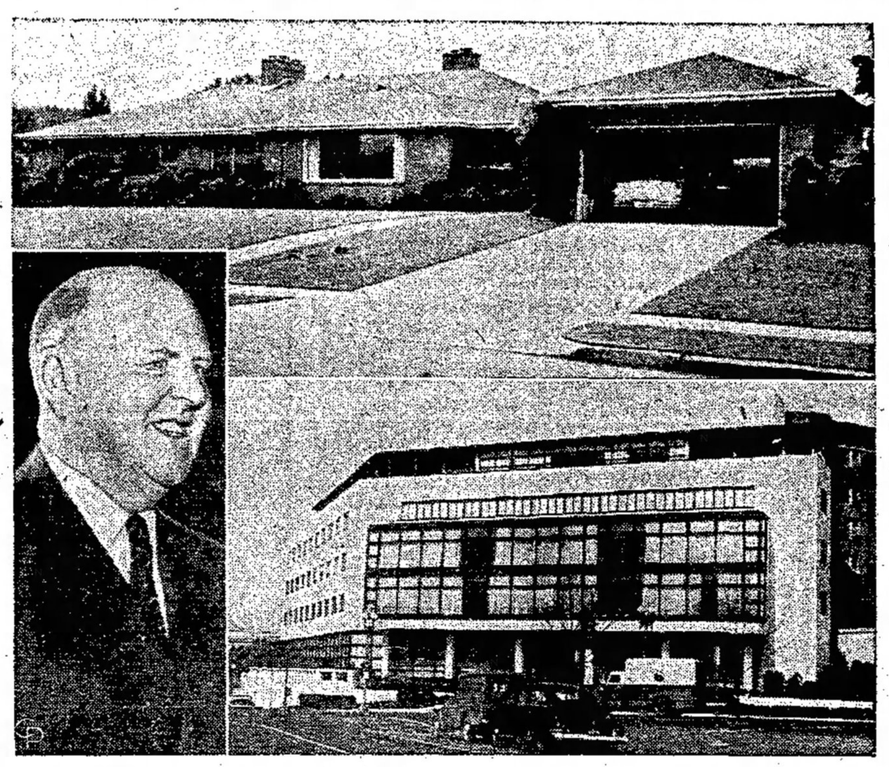
UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—George McGee, owner of the Hays Works near here, reported today that thieves stole $4,000 worth of copper trolley wire from a tool house at the plant.

McGee said the thieves had to squeeze through a small hole to get into an abandoned mine, then wade a half-mile through underground water to reach the tool house, located near a collapsed section of the pit.

Burping Bubbles

RENSSELAER, N.Y. (UP) — A nurse said "he was burping the prettiest bubbles you ever saw" after they pumped out three-year-old Arthur Van Gelder's stomach Friday. Arthur had popped a bath oil capsule into his mouth.

DAVE BECK---WHAT HE COULD DO TO YOU



Dave Beck, his $160,000 free home (upper) and the Teamsters union building in Washington.

James Hoffa

DAVE BECK, former laundry truck driver whose financial linen Senate labor probers want to hang up for public scrutiny, is a reputed millionaire. As international president of the 1,400,000-member Teamsters union, world's biggest, he can make truck transport wheels stop about anywhere, anytime, in the nation. Groceries would empty, gasoline stations would run dry, factories wouldn't have things to work with. Two co-stars on the Washington "hot seat" are James Hoffa of Detroit, boss of the Teamsters central states conference, and Frank W. Brewster, west coast Teamsters chief. Hoffa already is under indictment, charged with attempting to bribe a Senate committee aide. Brewster has been grilled about alleged dealings with underworld characters and haphazard "loans" with union money. Beck got a $160,000 home in Seattle as a gift from the union. He sold it back to the union, now lives in it expense-free. The $5,000,000 Teamsters building in Washington is a glass-and-marble showplace with sitdown showers, a cinemascope movie hall, swank offices. (International)

Frank Brewster

Racket Probers Want to Ask Beck Lots of Questions

WASHINGTON (UP) A Senate Rackets Committee spokesman said today Teamsters President Dave Beck's alleged "questionable use" of $270,000 in union funds is "by no means the end of the picture."

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the committee also has information "about certain other transactions" between Beck's union and companies that Beck controls.

He said the committee will question Beck about both the $270,000 and the "other transactions" when he appears before it next week or at a later date. Beck has promised to appear Tuesday with his financial records.

"Smear Tactics" Condemned

Kennedy hinted at Beck's "other transactions" as Teamster leaders in St. Louis condemned the committee for using "smear tactics." They also accused the committee of using the press for "prejudging" the union — largest in the nation.

The statement was issued by the policy committee of the Teamsters National Warehouse Division after a meeting attended by Teamsters "crown prince" James R. Hoffa and western boss Frank W. Brewster.

Hoffa is under indictment on charges of bribing a Rackets Committee investigator to filch secrets for him from the committee. Brewster, who temporarily finished testifying before the committee Friday, is under indictment for alleged contempt of Congress.

Kennedy said Friday shortly before the Rackets Committee wound up its sensational first series of hearings that Beck took at least $270,000 from the union "and used it for his personal benefit" between 1948 and the first three months of 1953.

More Probing Ahead

Kennedy told reporters the committee will also go into "other matters of his (Beck's) financial dealings with companies that have dealings with the union — companies that he owns or has a major interest in.

"This questionable use of funds we discussed (in the hearing) is by no means the end of the picture on Mr. Beck," he said.

The $270,000 which Beck allegedly took for his personal use was part of $709,420 in West Coast Teamsters funds which the committee said was lost, misappropriated, unaccounted for or spent in "questionable" ways.

Reporter Tells How it Feels to Be Awakened by an Earthquake

By NEAL CORBETT

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)— The violent series of earthquakes that is doing millions of dollars worth of damage in the San Francisco Bay area hit close to home for me—my house is located right on the San Andreas Fault.

I felt the first jolt shortly after returning home from the night shift at the United Press office. I left my wife Nancy and five-year-old daughter Lori at the breakfast table to report the incident to the office—as I had done on several occasions when smaller shocks were felt.

After breakfast I went to bed as Nancy and Lori were preparing to go on a shopping tour.

Just before noon, I was jarred from my bed. The house rocked, twisted and groaned. Dishes spilled from cupboards in the kitchen, pictures and wall decorations crashed to the floor, and the dresser rocked across the room toward me.

I grabbed my clothes and ran through the house putting them on, as glassware continued to crash to the floor. My family was gone and the car was gone.

I ran through the garage into the street, which was lined with crying housewives and children who had fled their homes. Pieces of plaster had fallen from some of my neighbors' homes. Water and gas pipes had burst in others.

One elderly man hurried from house to house with a wrench, turning off the gas supply.

We stood helpless in the street as a number of minor temblors rocked the area. A half block below my house, a reservoir holding one million gallons of water strained at its seams. Police and firemen were evacuating some 1,500 persons in the area directly below.

About that time, my car drove up. Nancy was quite calm, but little Lori was crying bitterly. She sobbed as she told about seeing a window shatter in a store, throwing glass into a woman's face.

"It was all bloody," she sobbed.

We quieted her down, and as shocks became less frequent the families moved back into their homes to inspect the damage. Twice later in the day we ran back to the street, but during a score of tremors we sat together on the couch and waited for the shaking to stop.

Last night at 9:30 I kissed my family goodbye again — perhaps with a little more feeling than usual.

The Crucial Talks At Bermuda

THE CONVERSATIONS at Bermuda between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan may possibly be the most crucial single piece of diplomacy in recent years.

We say this not so much because of any decisions which may or may not be made with respect to the Middle East, although certainly these would be of tremendous and immediate importance. But what is still more important is going to be the ability or the failure of the United States and Britain to resume the intimate collaboration that was so rudely interrupted last fall when the British and French attacked Egypt.

There are those in this country—and maybe some in England, too — who feel that this collaboration should not be resumed, that it would be more desirable for the United States, and perhaps for Britain, if they were to pursue independent policies, each country making its own friends in its own way and seeking its own objectives without the necessity of accounting to and consulting the other.

But we do not share this view at all. Indeed, we think it would be folly for both the United States and Britain if they should, by design or accident, dissolve their partnership and each go its own way.

* * *

OUR REASONING is simple: the two great English-speaking nations have a common culture and a common heritage of freedom, both quite unlike other cultures and other free systems and, of course, both diametrically different from dictatorship in all its variations.

This is a dangerous world for free men. Forces of tremendous power are organized for their destruction. Man-for-man the forces of freedom are outnumbered, and this promises to be true indefinitely.

How unanswerable, then, is the logic that says free men must stick together, must let nothing prevent their cooperation — not even their own mistakes.

We have not changed our minds about the British attack on Egypt. We think it was wrong — very wrong. A lot of Englishmen think it wrong, too, and are saying so. It cost one of the greatest statesmen of our time, Sir Anthony Eden, his career — possibly his life.

But bad as this mistake was and difficult though it may be to repair the damage, its consequences would be nothing compared with the catastrophe of a permanent breach between the two peoples who, to a great extent twice in this century saved the world for democracy, and who could well have to do it again.

Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Macmillan must somehow succeed in putting things to rights between us again.

School Bill Foes

TO OUR WAY of thinking, one of the most depressing enterprises under way in this country just now is the one designed to dissuade Congress from enacting a bill to make federal funds available to the states for the construction of public school buildings.

What makes this activity so depressing in our view is the participation in it of those usually enlightened and patriotic business organizations, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers.

These highly influential and articulate opponents of the school construction legislation have become so preoccupied with the size of the federal budget that they are willing to close their eyes to what, by large odds, is this nation's most compelling domestic problem — the lag in modern educational facilities.

They even go so far as to deny any need for federal aid, citing statistics to show that the construction of new classrooms is now keeping pace with the increase in school enrollment.

And perhaps it is in some states and districts. But this is not much comfort to the children of those localities where the public schools are disgracefully inadequate. Nor does it promise any prompt recovery of the ground that has been lost.

How do you measure the cost of a half-illiterate child to a democracy dependent upon an intelligent, informed citizenry? Try to explain, if you can, who is going to balance the national budget 50 years from now if we let the standards of public education sink in a morass of overcrowded schools.

What the U. S. Chamber and the NAM need, in addition to their profound respect for the tax dollar, is some better understanding of the essentiality of education in a self-governing society.

Changes Due Among Ike's Top Advisers

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The first break in the hold-over Eisenhower cabinet is now definitely in the making.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson will resign in June — short of war or something nearly equivalent to it.

Mr. Drummond

He has already so informed the White House which has begun exploring potential successors.

The leading candidate is Secretary of the Air Force Donald A. Quarles, a tough - minded specialist in the field of scientific weapons.

Actually the departure of Secretary Wilson — which can be put down as genuinely voluntary — will bring three vacancies in its train. His critical post will have to be filled and with Mr. Wilson's retirement, Reuben B. Robertson, Jr., will also resign as Deputy Secretary of Defense to return to private business in Cincinnati. If Mr. Quarles is promoted, as is probable, there will have to be a new Secretary of the Air Force. Thus far nothing but the Quarles appointment has been tentatively decided.

Other Changes Possible

President Eisenhower is not even toying with the idea of asking for any resignations, but the present year will quite conceivably see further changes in the second-term cabinet.

Ezra Taft Benson is far from wedded to his job as Secretary of Agriculture and if he feels pressed, either from Congress or from within the administration, to carry out a farm program which runs acutely against his convictions, he will find return to Salt Lake City very tempting.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, whose closely cemented, trusted relationship with the President remains unimpaired, does not want to bear the burdens of his stressful office a great deal longer. Mr. Eisenhower will not permit his resignation because of pressure either from Capitol Holl of from abroad, but his leaving the cabinet probably waits the right time and circumstance.

All in all the Eisenhower cabinet has established quite a record for its durability — and its harmony. There has been only one blow-up and this came as a result of the noble but implausible experiment of appointing a leading advocate of the Democratic opposition, the late Martin Durkin, as Secretary of Labor in a peacetime cabinet.

Durkin an Outsider

A President's cabinet is a political family and despite all the efforts on both sides to get along, Mr. Durkin was treated as a political outsider by most of his colleagues. I always felt that the cause of his break with the administration stemmed more from this fact than from the differences on Taft-Hartley amendments.

During the past five years there have been two other changes, not over policy matters. Oveta Culp Hobby resigned as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare for personal reasons and Douglas McKay left as Secretary of the Interior to return to Oregon to enter his unsuccessful race for the Senate. On balance the three replacements — James Mitchell, Marion Folsom and Fred Seaton — have for different reasons added strength to the cabinet.

The coming and going at the second level of the administration has been numerous and hurtful. This has been particularly true in the Pentagon where continuity is especially needed because the jobs themselves are so vast and complex. There have been at least two replacements in each of the three secretaryships of the armed services and the under and assistant secretaryships have been going around like revolving doors.

Boost for Air Power

The White House, perhaps in part because of the second term, is having great difficulty in getting and holding qualified people.

It is noteworthy, I think, that the probable elevation of Secretary of Air Donald Quarles to Secretary of Defense will give added influence to the advocates of priority for air power in the councils of the Pentagon. With Air Force General Twining replacing Adm. Radford as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and with Quarles likely moving to the top spot in Defense, air power will have enhanced sponsorhip.

Secretary Wilson will remain until June by which time, he hopes, the 1957-58 military budget will have been approved by Congress.

Mob Runs Taxicab Union

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The Senate Labor-and-Management Rackets Committee is preparing some big fireworks in New York City — at least as far as labor is concerned. One interesting piece of testimony investigators have dug up is how Sam Zackman, former boss of New York Taxicab Local 10 of the AFL - United Auto, Workers, got his charter.

Mr. Pearson

"I was looking around for a labor union," Zackman secretly testified in a statement to be used later, "and I heard that the UAW-AFL was starving to death, and it would be a simple matter to get a charter from them. I have always maintained a friendship with Sam B. who is well connected with the mob, so I called up Sam and asked him what he thought about the whole idea. Sam said he would investigate the possibilities of the deal and let me know.

"I waited for some time, during which time B. told me that he would have to make connections with the Chicago mob before he could get a contract.

"About a month before I got the contract, a highly placed guy by the name of Paul Dorfman from Chicago comes into town and takes a suite at the Hampshire House. I was invited up and Sam introduced me to him. This was just before I got the charter. I only saw Dorfman for a minute and B. introduced me as the president of the new union.

"B. intimated that it took quite a bit of money and effort with the Chicago mob to get the dough for the charter and to get the charter."

Hoffa's Pal

Significant part of this secret interrogation is the part played by Paul Dorfman. It happens that Dorfman is one of the closest pals of Jimmy Hoffa, the man who has been nudging Dave Beck for control of the Teamsters and who is now indicted for bribing a Senate agent.

Dorfman is head of the Waste Materials Handlers in Chicago, and is so close to Hoffa that Dorfman's wife and son received a million dollars in commissions for handling Hoffa's welfare funds.

When Dorfman was cross-examined about this by a House subcommittee under Congressman Clare Hoffman of Michigan, Dorfman pleaded the 5th Amendment. Later the congressional probe of labor racketeering was stopped through the adroit "good offices" of Postmaster General Summerfield, though he now denies this.

The UAW-AFL, now the Allied Industrial Workers, is currently under investigation by Joe Beirne, head of the Communications Workers, on the orders of the AFL Executive Council. The Waste Materials Handlers have been given 90 days by President George Meany to clean out racketeering or face loss of their charter.

Shakedown Racket

The manner in which racketeers have moved in on the labor movement as a shakedown operation is further indicated by a secret memo in the Senate files pertaining to Sam Zackman's taxicab operation in New York.

"Zackman further stated," the memo says, "that Sam B. paid many of the initial bills of the union and introduced John Dio to him. Zackman stated that B. and Dio told him that they would finance the union to begin with and that he could pay them back from the union treasury later on. He stated that the principal purpose of B's local was to keep the dress manufacturers in line for the racket boys."

Johnny Dio, original name Dioguardia, is also a friend of Jimmy Hoffa's, despite the fact that Tom Dewey convicted Dio some time ago for extortion. Dio has now been indicted in connection with the acid-blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel, but prior to that he played an important backstage role in the Teamster civil war between John O'Rourke and Martin Lacey to control New York City.

Dio, though once convicted by Dewey, threw his weight to the man who twice managed the labor end of Dewey's campaign, O'Rourke. As a result O'Rourke now controls the Teamsters in New York City. Incidentally, he is now under careful scrutiny by the U. S Attorney's assistants in New York, most of them Dewey boys.

Fence-sitting Lister

Sen. Lister Hill of Alabama, who has done considerably more for his fellow men than some senators, is suffering a case of the jitters.

He's so jittery over the school bill that he's now fence-sitting. It may mean that there'll be no school bill this year.

In the past, Senator Hill has been a crusader for better education. He has crusaded as hard for more schools and better teachers' salaries as he has for better health. And he had done an A-1 job on both. He was the Senator who introduced the tidelands oil education bill whereby oil from the tidelands off the coasts of Texas, Louisiana, and California would go to all the schools of the 48 states.

But today, Senator Hill, who previously pushed all education bills, is not pushing. He's become fence-sitter Hill. He alibis that he wants to see what the House of Representatives will do about the school bill; so there's no need to rush.

This, however, was not his view in the past. In the past he was breathing down the necks of House members, demanding action.

There's a reason, of course, for Lister's fence-sitting. He's afraid the Powell amendment might pass the House. This is the amendment to withhold federal funds from schools which don't obey the Supreme Court on segregation. The amendment, proposed by the Negro Congressman from Harlem, N. Y., who bolted to Ike last November but is now snuggling back to the Democrats, is opposed by the White House and congressional leaders.

However, it may pass. If it does, Senator Hill wants to be in a position to use delaying tactics in the Senate so that no school bill will be passed. For him or any other senator from Alabama to pass a school bill with the Powell amendment attached would be political suicide.

NOTE — Lister claims the U. S. Chamber of Commerce lobby is trying to block the school bill. True, but in the past he was in the vanguard fighting the anti-school lobby.

Spring, Nature's Most Cooperative Season

By HARRY R. PORE, Jr.

Spring means different things to different people, which may not be the most profound observation ever made in this space but may qualify as the most uncontroversial. And one of the universal effects of the advent of spring is apt to be a lessening of argumentative impulses.

Nature is more pliable and cooperative in spring than in any other season. The farmer and the gardener find the earth ready to receive their ministrations. It yields to the plow and the spading fork with comparatively little resistance, and if the timing is right, the discing and raking in preparation of the seed bed become pleasant and rewarding tasks. The tiller can look back over his shoulder in satisfaction.

The insects which later become a nuisance at best and a meance at worst remain dormant through the time of plowing and planting, more evidence of nature's pleasant mood of cooperation.

In those homes still lucky enough to have a fireside and where the television set hasn't reduced members of the household to nodding acquaintances, winter is a season of familial closeness and unity. The four walls mark out the most pleasant of all man's oases.

Urge for Release

But where there are not outdoor chores to be performed, the tag end of winter produces a cramped sensation which only the first warming days of spring can dispel. Then the household, long confined within itself, feels the same urge for release that makes the buds of the trees burst their bonds.

The head of the house looks to the grass seed and fertilizer and finds jobs for his subordinates to perform. (It's high time they were learning, says he.) The nursery catalogues are essential reading, and that home improvement project, long contemplated, becomes an order of business.

It just seems that there is no time in spring for argument and controversy and criticism. It's a period of expansion and construction, of forward-looking and optimism. It's what's ahead, not what's behind, that counts now.

The student, too, finds spring a turning point. For many, the year can be made or broken in this final term. If schools are anything like they used to be, a hard effort beginning now will produce greater results than a similar effort made previously. I don't know why that should be unless it's because most teachers are human beings and therefore susceptible to spring's blandishments.

Time for Panty Raid

Spring is a foolish and dangerous time for youth, too. Any day now the news desks across the nation can expect to receive the first dispatch of the season describing a panty raid on a girl's dorm, or whatever is this year's version of the collegians' vernal madness.

In our time, we were not silly about it — we engaged in productive, imaginative pranks like squirting the fire hose out the dormitory windows at faculty proctors. In the passage of time, how is a panty, probably made of synthetic fabric, to be compared with a bleat of surprised anguish from a professor of the humanities caught full in the puss by a jet from a fire hose? We lived dangerously then, too — but with a purpose!

Ah, yes — spring, the equinox, the season of hope and promise, of gentle stirring in man and nature, of new life and love which admit no obstacles no possibility of defeat.

A most useful subject, too. And not just for the poet and the painter but as well for the alleged moulder of opinion who doesn't happen to feel like doing any moulding.

In The Open—

Gusty March Staging Pre-Spring Spectacle

By JOHN H. DAY

The March wind hustled its way through the bottomlands, rattling the dry reeds edging the slough, and sending the brown leaves into whirling dervish dances where the woodlands lay open to its approach. I pulled up in the lee of a great boulder and thrilled to the majestic music of the bullying gusts as they played out the chord sequence familiar to all countrymen who walk the timber trails. An awesome assortment of banshee wails moaned all about me as lofty branches scraped together in awkward wind-driven fiddling.

For nearly two days the wind had blown steadily, drying out country roadways and nudging small boys along to the kite store. There was no chill threat in its teeth; only the warm promise of gentle spring rains somewhere close behind that bombastic advance guard. Even my old felt hat became bemused by its blandishments and took off on a whirling gust, to land perilously near a broad mud puddle in the roadway.

During the forepart of the night I watched the new moon ride like a plunging boat through the driving waves of broken cloud mass hurtling across the sky. The steersman held sturdy course through those rough seas. As I watched a killdeer complained overhead, crying his lonesomeness into the darkness.

Stars Give Signs

The Big Dipper rode upside down in the northern sky. I traced out the handle and greeted the amber Arcturus, flashing on and off in the northeast through the breaks in the clouds. Arcturus is the Spring-Bringer known to many as the "plowman's" star. Its appearance in the March heavens marks the time land is turned again, and its passing in November marks the end of the plowman's time.

I rode along through the windswept countryside, noting emerald patches on the hillsides where the spring runs seeped through the sod. Heavy stands of wheat lay like great green squares in the lowlands. Bluebirds flew up from the fence posts ahead, and once I saw a long-tailed hawk swoop low across the roadway as he patrolled for meadow mice.

I tramped a mile or so through some open woodland. The persistent wind had ruined the day for bird work and I encountered little activity in the feathered line. A gray squirrel scampered along the remains of a stake and rider fence, and a large garter snake lay atop some sedge grass in the warm sun by the side of a brook. I stirred him up and he put on a belligerent show before he hid in a grass tussock.

Everywhere the streams were running full, the limpid water sparkling in the sunlight as it raced out to join forces with other spring fed rills and trace the time worn course to the broad valley below. I followed one of these swollen brooks back through an open draw in the woods. Water striders skated on every eddy. Finally the brook "gave out" in the crumbling remains of a log spring house, built there many years ago.

Finds Hideaway

I wandered out of the woods, crossing a high ridge, and came upon a lone haystack which commanded a view of the surrounding fields. Here was an ideal spot to hide from the wind and watch for a chance fox below. I burrowed into the side of the stack and spent a cozy half hour, drowsing peacefully while the rest of the world worried over the latest portentous news from the four corners of the globe.

Nary a fox came by to entertain me. I finally dragged myself from that delightful loafing place and moseyed back across the hills to the waiting car. The dangling catkins in a clump of hazelnut shrubs attracted my attention and I found a handful of the meaty filberts which had persisted through the winter. The Kernels were sweet and tasty.

This is supposedly the month of the mad March hare. I did my best to kick out a bunny so that I could see how this madding crowd performs. During the day I blundered close by the "forms" of three rabbits. Aside from the fact that they ran like mad they all appeared to be normal, law-abiding cottontails.

Shortly after nightfall I was back again in my home valley. The promise of the driving breeze seemed even closer and soon the flicker of lightning winked across the hills. Later the wind blew itself off elsewhere and the gentle rain fell softly through the March night.

ON THE BALL

By ALLEN KLINE

Ex Brownsville Coach Has Success

Fred Kreuter, who resigned as head basketball coach at Brownsville High last year to move on to Hanover, certainly made a smashing debut in his new job. Kreuter directed his Hanover boys to a 21-6 record the past campaign. That was the finest mark in the school's history. His club eventually lost out to Reading in the PIAA playoffs . . . Earlier in the week, we offered the opinion that the recent WPIAL Basketball Tournament was the poorest in years, as far as quality was concerned. That remark was made before the title game. Certainly the championship contest which Sharon won, 56-55, was brilliantly-played by both teams.

* * *

Incidentally, you have to feel a tinge of sorrow for McKeesport High coach Neenie Campbell. His Tigers lost out in the semi-finals last year because of Monessen's "miracle finish." They lost the 1957 WPIAL crown through some truly sensational shooting by Sharon . . . Ollie Payne, 6-4 schoolboy from Charleroi who had a tough time in the WPIAL show, was superb for Monessen Big Five in the Ozark Tournament the other night even though he was competing against collegians. Payne is potentially the greatest basketballer ever to come out of the valley.

Uniontown Turns Down Farrell Bid

Uniontown High officials have turned down an invitation to appear in the Farrell Invitation Basketball Tournaent during the Christmas holidays next season . . . Speaking of Uniontown, the Red Raiders netted $3,478.95 on basketball during the 1956-57 campaign . . . James (Beanie) Gordon, Washington High's brilliant basketballer who played varsity ball for four seasons, never failed to score in a single game. As a matter of fact, he missed making at least ten points in only one game the past three seasons. As a freshman he averaged five points per game, as a sophomore 21.6 points; as a junior 18; and as a senior 25. He maintained those average in WPIAL tourney competition, too.

* * *

Section 3 has certainly dominated the WPIAL Basketball Tournament in recent years. That loop has supplied a tourney finalist in each of the past nine years. And in 13 of the last 14 WPIAL shows, a Section 3 team has managed to make the finals. Six times, the Section 3 champion won the tourney crown as well. Farrell, alone, accounted for four of the successes . . .Elmo Natali, former Monessen High and CSTC athlete now coaching at Monongahela, has this amusing observation: "I'm paid more for coaching Junior High basketball—a sport which I never played—than I am for coaching varsity baseball, a sport in which I achieved some success." . . . There must be a moral in that somewhere or other.

St. John's Denies Complaint by Coach

At St. John's in Uniontown, they're busy denying complaints by St. Casimir coach Gus Krop that his boys were given the "treatment" in their recent Catholic Tournament game. Originally the tussle was scheduled for the spacious Uniontown High gym but it was eventually played at the tiny Lafayette Junior High floor. Gus insists that switch was a St. John's maneuver to ambush his boys, who barely kept alive their 44 game winning streak by posting a two point decision . . . But they tell a different story in Uniontown. The game was transferred, with Kropp's approval, because of a band concert at the Uniontown auditorium. St. John's officials had even asked that the game be delayed until 9:30 so that it could be played in the bigger UHS gym. The St. John's spokesman pointed out that his boys have a big gym of their own (90 feet by 50 feet), while St. Casimir plays on a tiny floor. Thus it was no advantage to St. John's to play at the Lafayette layout.

Memphis State Boys Stay in Hotel Rooms

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

Adolph Rupp, the Kentucky basketball coach, used to complain that his "po' li'l boys" were so used to walking on grass that the New York pavements ruined their feet and it made a terrific impression on Coach Bob Vanatta of Memphis State.

Thus, before bringing his quintet to New York where he led it all the way to today's National Invitation Tournament final against Bradley, Vanatta polled his squad and found out that only two of the boys ever had been to New York before. So he gave the team a two-day orientation session on "how to act in New York."

Don't Pound Pavements

"You can walk yourself right out of the tournament if you pound those pavements with too much sight-seeing," he warned.

So the Memphis scrappers stuck to their hotel rooms and rested—and win, lose or draw in this afternoon's final, as a reward they'll have tonight and all day Sunday for uninterrupted rubber-necking.

When Cuba's Isaac Logart and Philadelphia's Gil Turner meet in a 10-round welterweight bout at Madison Square Garden on Friday night, with Logart an 8 to 5 choice, it may be the last bout in the Manhattan palace of maul until September. The circus moves in after that for six weeks followed by evangelist Billy Graham, who has the Garden for seven weeks with an additional two-month option.

Rubbed Out Unexpectedly

Seattle was rubbed out unexpectedly in the NIT tournament but its coach, John Castellani, must take down honors as the most uninhabited basketball coach of the year. On one occasion, he sat down on the rival bench and began discussing a referee's call with the amazed opposition coach. Another time, hearing catcalls from the gallery, he went up and sat with the heckling spectators, advising them:

"You must be seeing things from up here that I can't see down there."

His star, Elgin Baylor, has a nervous head tic when he plays basketball. Which caused Castellani to observe:

"Did you ever see an Elgin that didn't tick?"

John Howard Payne was a prolific author but all his writings are forgotten with the single exception of his poem, "Home, Sweet Home".

Three Games in Ozark Tournament

Chester Routs Allentown

Sharon in PIAA Play Tonight

By BURTON W. SIGLIN

Chester provided the shocker of the annual schoolboy state championship tournament Friday night by rapping previously undefeated Allentown, 33-65, to advance to the eastern finals of the PIAA playoffs.

But the Lehigh Valley City had consolation in the victory of its second major high school team, Allentown Central Catholic, for the second straight year in th annual Pennsylvania Catholic Interscholastic Athletic Association Finals. Central Catholic slapped Johnstown Catholic, 60-46, to retain the Catholic playoff title.

Allentown's defeat, the first in 27 games this season, left Sharon the only unbeaten major team in the statewide Class "A" eliminations. The win was the 25th for Chester in 27 games.

Chester's torrid opening pace took the starch out of the attack of Allentown's District 11 champions and gave the Clippers a 16-4 lead halfway through the first period. The District One kings made eight of their first 10 shots and although Allentown, trailing 27-14 after the first period, managed to close the gap to 37-32 near the halfway mark, that was as close as the Canaries could get. Chester led 41-32 at halftime and Allentown never threatened in the final two periods.

Double Figures

Billy Wilson's 28 points paced the winners who had four men hit the double figures. Allentown's all-state candidate Bob Heffner made 17 as did his teammate Bernie Costello.

The 148 points scored by the two teams set a new record for the Class "A" playoffs, erasing the 143 chalked up in Farrell's 83-60 victory over Meadville last year.

Bill Cramsey went on a point scoring spree in the middle of the Allentown Catholic - Johnstown Catholic tilt to break the game wide open and give the Vikings their second straight PCIAA title.

Allentown trailed 28-24 at halftime, but Cramsey, scoring 19 of 21 points during one Allentown rally, shot the Vikings into a 43-34 lead in the third period and the winners coasted in from this point Cramsey's 27 points was high for the winners while Jim Burkhardt had 14 for Johnstown.

Ashley Wins

Another Lehigh Valley team—Fountain Hill — made strides towards retaining its Class "B" title by winning its way into the eastern finals with an 84-68 victory over Darby, the District One representative. Fountain Hill moved to a 37-27 halftime lead and widened that edge in the second half. Dick Kosman paced the winners with 36 points and Warren Clifton had 35 for Darby.

Ashley's District Two champions won the right to face Fountain Hill in the Eastern Class "B" finals next Tuesday by hammering Elk Lake, of District 12, 66-53, at Wilkes - Barre. Len Augustine scored 34 points for the winners and Dick Lathrop had 25 for Elk Lake.

In a third Class "B" game Shannock Valley, the WPIAL champion, rolled to an easy 84-53 conquest of Forbes, of District Five, to enter the western finals against Mercer next Tuesday.

Forbes held the District Seven kings fairly well in check in the first quarter which ended with Shannock Valley holding a 21-16 advantage. But by halftime the eventual winners held a 44-24 lead and it was easy from that point. Jim Franceschi had 29 points for Shannock Valley while Gerald Peden and Frank Kretvetski each had 14 for the losers.

Tonight's games will decide the other three survivors in the Class "A" playoffs. Sharon meets Altoona at the University of Pittsburgh Field House in one western semi-final while Erie Strong Vincent's District 10 kings play the Pittsburgh City League champion, Oliver, at Westminster College, New Wilmington.

Class A Pairing

Coal Township, of District Four, and Reading's District Three titleholders vie for the other spot in the eastern Class "A" pairings at the Penn Palestra in Philadelphia. The winner will face Chester in the eastern finals at Hershey March 27.

The Class "B" title of the PCIAA also is up for grabs tonight when Pittsburgh St. Casimir's defending champions face Plymouth St. Vincent at Scranton.

Gaints Need Miracle To Become Contender

By BILL MCFARLAND

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UP) — The New York Giants will need a miracle, like the one in 1951, if they are to get very far in the National League pennant race this year.

Although Bill Rigney, in his second year as manager of the Giants is an optimistic fellow, he knows it will take a lot of doing to beat out Brooklyn, Milwaukee, Cincinnati or St. Louis for a place in the first division.

"I know we're better than a sixth place ball club," said Rigney, "But I'll have to admit we have a lot of ifs connected with our club."

The ifs apply to:

Red, Schoendienst's ability to play a full season at second base, following an arm injury last year.

Gail Harris' hitting. Harris could not solve big league pitching in two previous trys with the Giants. But the slick-fielding first baseman has showed signs this spring of breaking his habit of hitting at bad pitches.

Rookies Have Jobs

Rookies Andre Rodgers, a shortstop from Dallas, and Ossie Virgil, a third baseman from Minneapolis. Right now they have won regular jobs — Rodgers with his power hitting and Marty Marion-like fielding, and Virgil with his hustle at third.

Hank Sauer, the 38-year-old left fielder. His legs must hold up. He has been hitting the long ball this spring as he once did.

Those are lot of ifs, but if they turn out favorably, "then we're gonna have a heckuva ball team," says Rigney.

There's one encouraging thing about the Giants. The odds are strong that they will get another fine performance out of Willie Mays, the "Say Hey" kid who makes everyone say "hey" about hit hitting, fielding and running.

Mays is hitting the ball to right field with regularity—a feature that Rigney says could make him "a .380 hitter."

Don Mueller, in his 10th year with the Giants, will hold down right field, hoping to improve his .269 average of 1956.

Wes Westrum hasn't caught 100 games since the 1953 season, but he still is one of the steadiest receivers in the business. He must work nearly a full season behind the plate if the Giants have first division hopes.

For pitching, the Giants have one of the best left handers in the game in Johnny Antonelli, 20 - 13 last year. The much-traveled Dick Littlefield was promoted to the No. 2 spot this week.

After him, the starting prospects are unpredictable Ruben Gomez, (7-17); Red Worthington (7-14) and Joe Margoneri (6-6). Rigney also gives rookies Pete Burnside and Curt Barclay, both with Minneapolis in 1956, a chance to make the staff.

The Giants' No. 1 relief pitcher will be old Marv Grissom, who appeared in 43 games last season and had a 1.56 earned run average. Gordon Jones, who had three previous trials with the Cardinals, and Steve Ridzik also will be available for bullpen duty.

Pirates Lose to Braves, 4 to 3

FT. MYERS, Pa. (UP)— The Pittsburgh Pirates take a day off today — their second rest in three days.

But Thursday's relaxation did little to help the Bucs Friday in their exhibition outing against the Milwaukee Braves at Bradenton, Fla. Joe Adcock homered in the eighth to tie the score and singled in the 10th to give the Braves a 4-3 victory.

Starter Bob Buhl held the Bucs hitless until Bill Virdon came to bat in the sixth. Virdon's bat and the wind combined for a triple.

Virdon returned in the eighth with a home run over the right field wall, setting the Bucs ahead 3-2. But Adcock took over and ruined the hero role for Virdon.

Dutch Girls Set New Record

HILVERSUM, The Netherlands (UP)—Four Dutch girl swimmers Friday night established a new European record for the 400-meter relay free style, clocking the event in four minutes, 23 seconds to break the 1952 Olympic record by one minute, 1.4 seconds.

Public Invited To Sportsmen Show Tonight

Gary Anderson, archery expert from Charleroi, will stage a demonstration at the Monessen Sportsmen's Club tonight.

Anderson's appearance will feature a "free show" planned by the Sportsmen beginning at 8 p. m.

In addition, there will be a fish fry, also "on the house."

The event is designed to stimulate interest in the current Sportsmen Club membership drive. The public is cordially invited to take part in this evening's fun.

Anderson, once the national junior champion, placed third in the nation - wide senior tournament last year even though he's still a teen-ager.

The district archer has developed an interesting routine, which includes trick shooting.

Besides Anderson, the Sportsmen will show a film entitled "Out of the North." The movie deals with the migration of wild ducks and geese.

In charge of the program will be Fred Stockus.

Cellar Levels Another Blast At Baseball

NEW YORK (UP)—Rep. Emanuel Celler declared today that baseball "has made quite a concession" in admitting it is a business and dismissed the game's two main arguments for exemption from federal anti-trust laws as "pure unadulterated hokum."

"Baseball has certainly come full swing since the Danny Gardella case if it now concedes it is a business at all," said Celler (D-NY), who is chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. "In pleading the Gardella case before the Supreme Court, its main argument was it was not a business."

Celler than attacked the two main points made by Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick after Friday's unprecedented meeting of the game's brass in Bellair, Fla. Frick called baseball a "unique industry" and said it believes "a statute subjecting professional baseball to anti-trust laws will injure baseball without any corresponding benefit to the public."

"Of course baseball is a unique industry," scoffed Celler. "So is the television industry. . .the garment industry. . .and the pretzel business. But does that mean they should all be outside the law of the land?

"And this business of benefitting the public is just pure unadulterated hokum," Celler continued. "Major league club owners aren't trying to benefit the public. They're out to make money by moving players around like pawns and chattels.

Celler also argued that placing baseball under the anti-trust laws "wouldn't injure the game at all but would help it because it will attract more talent if the players know they can't be moved around like pawns."

Hockey Goalie Becomes Father

LUDLOW, Mass. (UP) — Rookie goalie Don Simmons, who has been sparkling for the Boston Bruins since taking over for the retired Terry Sawchuk, became a father for the first time Friday, when his wife gave birth to a boy at Ludlow Hospital.

Strong Washington Quint Will Make Its Debut Tonight

The team most likely to win the senior division title in the sixth annual Ozarks Basketball Tournament will make its debut tonight at the Monessen High gym.

The power-laden Washington Intervals — runnersup in last year's show — will meet New Brighton at 8:30 p. m. in the feature attraction of a triple-header card.

Other games will pair the Monessen Ozarks against Monessen Big Five at 7:30 in the senior class and Monessen Links against Elizabeth at 6:30 in the junior class.

The Intervals have assembled an imposing cast which includes a trio of Pitt stars, John Riser, Bob Lazor and Barry Brautigan.

Lazor 6-6, and Riser, 6-4, were brilliant scorers at Pitt for the past three seasons. Riser was particularly outstanding in the recent NCAA Tourney and won a berth on the all-eastern tournament team.

Sixth Man

Brautigan, 6-6, was the sixth-man on the Panther team the past season. He subbed for Lazor in the NCAA playoffs when the latter was forced out with a leg injury.

The Washington lineup also includes James (Beanie) Gordon, an all-time great from Washington High.

The rest of the roster includes these players, most of them former Wash High standouts: Dick Kurtz, Gene Steratore, John Laneve, Paul Lazor, Frank Steratore and Jack Shultz.

The Intervals are favored to sweep by New Brighton. The Beaver Valley boys failed to impress anyone while posting a close win over the Monessen Ozarks on Thursday.

Tonight's other senior division game will pair two teams which have already lost a tourney assignment. That means either the Monessen Ozarks or Monessen Big Five will bow out of the show this evening.

Quick Exit

More than likely the Ozarks will make the quick exit. Big Five looked very good despite a two-point loss to Donora Last Chance earlier in the week.

The junior tussle tonight looks very interesting. Both the Monessen Links and Elizabeth are highly regarded.

The Links boast a long list of stars including Gordon and Charles Smith, of Washington; Ollie Payne, Charleroi; Wilbur Stewart, Snowden; Reginald Haten, Rostraver; and Ron Minnie and Carl Crawley of Monessen.

Elizabeth isn't exactly helpless either. The team is a mixture of Elizabeth, Duquesne and Clairton products. Bill Soffa, the brilliant Duquesne High star, was the standout during an earlier Elizabeth appearance.

Needles, Fabius Meet Again In Race Today

HALLANDALE, Fla. (UP)—Needles and Fabius, arch rivals in the triple crown classics of 1956, renew their feud in the $100,000 added Gulfstream Park Handicap today but Bardstown, the leading handicap horse of the winter season, is expected to whip them both.

The dark bay gelding, who failed to get to the post as a two-or three-year-old, has won the Tropical Handicap under 128 pounds, finished second to Summer Tan in the McLennan Handicap under 128 pounds, won the Widener Handicap under 126, and scored in the Appleton Handicap under 130.

Bardstown carried that same 130 pound impost in the Gulfstream and was the principal reason the Calumet entry was quoted at 3 to 5 in the mile and one-quarter race worth a total of $126,600 with seven starters.

Jockey Champ Bill Hartack will ride Bardstown while Eddie Arcaro had the mount on Fabius, who shoulders 123 pounds in a race to be telecast and broadcast nationally by CBS. Post time was about 4:50 p.m., EST.

Defeated In WPIAL Volleyball

Monessen High's rebuilt volleyball forces yielded their WPIAL title yesterday at North Braddock, but not before a real scrap.

Coach John (Corky) DeMillion's boys advanced to the title round of the WPIAL tournament before failing before a slick Homestead team, 15-7 and 15-11.

"We just didn't have the experience to carry us through," said DeMillion. "However the future certainly looks promising since we lose only Carl Crawley and George Seleylo from this squad through graduation."

De Million singled out Crawley and Jim Baker for especially good performances.

Monessen handled East Deer, Trafford and Braddock before stumbling before Homestead.

Represent WPIAL

By winning the tournament, the Steelers earned the right to represent District 7 (WPIAL) in the state-wide playoffs at Penn State next month. Last year, Monessen also won the state crown.

Homestead breezed through the tourney without a real scare. Only Munhall and Monessen managed to force the Steelers into a sweat.

Ten boys saw action for the Hounds: Crawley, Baker, Seleylo, Tom Churan, Alvin Bost, Marvin Scales, C. L. Melenyzer, Terry Troop, Bill Mackinen and Carl Berkovitz.

Here are the tourney scores:

First Rounds

Braddock over East Pittsburgh, 15-10 and 15-2; Aliquippa over Plum, 15-4 and 15-13; Trafford over Kittanning, 15-7 and 15-12; Monessen over East Deer, 15-1 and 15-9; Munhall over Monongahela, 15-3 and 15-1; Charleroi over Bentleyville, 15-10 Homestead over Clairton, 15-3 and 15-5; Coraopolis over Waynesburg, 15-6 and 15-2; Munhall over Irwin, 15-4 and 15-1.

Quarter-Finals

Monessen over Trafford, 15-5 and 15-5; Braddock over Aliquippa, 15-11 and 15-4; Munhall over Charleroi, 15-3 and 15-1; Homestead over Coraopolis, 15-12 and 15-4.

Semi-Finals

Monessen over Braddock, 15-5 and 15-4; Homestead over Munhall, 15-12 and 15-9.

Finals

Homestead over Monessen, 15-7 and 15-11.

Berrios Earns Split Decision

NEW YORK (UP)— Little Miguel Berrios, brand new American featherweight champion and semi-finalist in the tourney for the vacant world crown, said today, "I must ween the beeg title for my four keeds."

Stocky, broad-shouldered Miguel attained his new prominence by chasing Brooklyn's speedy Carmelo Costa about Madison Square Garden's ring Friday night and flooring him once while enroute to a single-point, 12-round, split decision.

Each weighed 125 pounds, just one under the feather limit. Miguel was favored at 8-5.

Victory in the nationally televised and broadcast fight earned the 24-year-old Puerto Rican terrier the right to meet Hogan (Kid) Bassey of Nigeria, Africa, in the semi-final 12-rounder at Washington, D.C., April 26.

Later the Washington winner will fight Cherif Hamia of France, European champion, for the world title left vacant by Sandy Saddler's recent retirement.

Oddsmakers Favor Kansas in NCAA Tournament Final Tonight

By LYLE SCHWILLING

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Odds-makers, figuring on Wilt Chamberlain's fabulous talent for scoring and rebounding, rate Kansas a 10-point favorite over North Carolina in tonight's NCAA title basketball game.

Kansas won its berth with an easy 80-56 win over San Francisco while North Carolina, ranked No. 1 in the nation, took a thrilling 74-70 win over Michigan State after three overtime periods.

San Francisco Coach Phil Woolpert summed it up this way:

"The big factor was we didn't contain the other four men. Chamberlain is no one-man team, there is no such thing. He hurts you on the boards, but the other four men hurt you worse."

The towering goal-getter was brilliant, as usual, getting 32 points and grabbing 11 rebounds. North Carolina's great Lennie Rosenbluth lived up to his press notices with a 31-point performance.

It is a game the nation's basketball fans have waited for all season. Kansas has been rated No. 2 most of the season with North Carolina, unbeaten now in 31 starts, has ranked at the top.

Coach Frank McGuire of North Carolina said the Michigan State tangle was "one of the toughest games we've played this season and we feel very lucky to have won it."

Michigan State Coach Froddy Anderson said, "I feel our team did the best job it could do. Fate just had it we weren't supposed to win this one. We had all kinds of opportunities, but so did North Carolina before it finally won it."

The tough North Carolina-Michigan State struggle was the second longest in NCAA playoff history. Canisius had to go four overtimes to be North Carolina State, 79-78, in the first round at New York last year.

Deadlocked 29-29 at halftime, it was 58-58 at the finish of standard playing time, 64-64 after the first overtime and 66-66 after the second.

Kansas, which had expected a great battle with San Francisco, breezed through with little pressure.

Quarter-Finals In Ladies Golf

PINEHURST, N.C. (UP)—Pacific Coast coed Anne Quast, the pre-tourney favorite, and veteran competitor Anne Richardson were favored to win their quarter-final matches today in the North and South Women's Amateur Golf Championships.

Only one headline player was missing — Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., who was tripped by Cynthia Sullivan of Harrisburg, Pa., in the upset battle of the teenagers Friday.

In today's matches, Miss Quast, Marysville, Wash., played Ann Casey Johnstone, Mason City, Iowa; Miss Richardson, Columbus, Ohio, met mrs. Alice Dye Jr., of Indianapolis, Ind.; Miss Sullivan, Harrisburg, Pa., faced Barbara McIntyre, Toledo, Ohio, and Mary Ann Downey, Baltimore, Md., met Mrs. N. S. Woolworth, New Canaan, Conn.

Inclement weather and the pressure of one of the nation's oldest tourneys took its toll in second round play Friday.

Mrs. Johnstone nipped medalist Marge Burns of Greensboro, N.C., 3-2.

Miss Sullivan played superb and poor golf to oust 18-year-old Miss Creed, 2 and 1.

Nominate 33 for Chesapeake Race

LAUREL, Md. (UP) — Thirty-three three-year-olds have been nominated for the six - furlong Chesapeake Trial April 13 at Laurel. Twenty - two of the sophomores also have been named for the longer Chesapeake Stakes, one of the Eastern Seaboard's primary tests for Kentucky Derby hopefuls. The Chesapeake is decided two weeks before the Derby classic.

Bradley Meets Memphis For NIT Title Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) — Bradley's bouncing Braves match their all-around finesse against Memphis State's "fire house" brigade today in the final of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

Led by 6-foot-7 Barney Cable, Bradley reigned as a six-point favorite for the championship game, which will be nationally-televised.

The high - scoring Braves from Peoria, Ill., already have established three new Garden records while averaging 105 points in two tournament games, and are expected to set another mark against Memphis State. They need only 57 points today to erase the three-game NIT highwater mark of 266 set last year by Louisville, the non-defending champion.

However, in Memphis State, the Braves will be facing a dangerous speedy club that has scored three straight upsets in gaining the final and has captured the hearts of the New York fans with its never-say-die spirit.

Big Scorer

Cable has been the big gun in the Bradley attack, scoring 53 points in two games. And behind him are sure capable operatives as 6-foot-6 Joe McDade, 6-foot-5 Shellie McMillon and 6-foot-2 Joe Mason.

Memphis State doesn't figure to match the Braves' backboard strength, for their tallest player is 6-foot-5 Orby Arnold. However, the Tigers build their go-go attack around Win Wilfong, a tireless ballhawk, and two classy guards, Jack Butcher and Bob Swander.

KDKA to Air Pirate Games

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Broadcasts of the Pittsburgh Pirate baseball games, carried over radio station WWSW since 1939, will be carried by KDKA for the 1957 season.

The Pittsburgh Baseball Club also announced that 24 Pirate away-from-home weekend games will be telecast this season over KDKA-TV, WSTV - Steubenville, Ohio, and WJAC-TV, Johnstown.

Along with KDKA, the other 50,000-watt radio station carrying all Pirate games this season is WWVA, Wheeling W. Va.

Other stations affiliated with the Pirate network include WMMM, Fairmont, W. Va.; WFBG, Altoona; WTBO Cumberland, Md.; WJAC, Johnstown; WMGW, Meadville; WPIC, Sharon; WHUN, Huntingdon; WNAS, State College; WKRZ, Oil City; WCVI, Connellsville; WJPA, Washington.

Syracuse Meets Boston Tonight

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UP) — The Syracuse Nationals meet the Boston Celtics today in the second game of the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division final playoff series.

The game will be televised nationally beginning at 2:30 p.m. EST by the National Broadcasting Company.

The Nationals, beaten 108-90 in the opening game of the best-of-five series at Boston Thursday night, were confident that playing at home would make a big difference.

The series switches to Boston Sunday for another afternoon game, back here on Monday if necessary, and winds up at Boston Wednesday, if necessary. The winner meets the Western Division survivor for the NBA championship. St. Louis leads Minneapolis, 1-0, in the Western and meets the Lakers in the second game of their series Sunday afternoon at St. Louis.

Doctors Okay Stautner's Knee

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh Steeler tackle Ernie Stautner, injured last season, should be ready for the August training camp if he follows his doctors instructions.

Team physician Dr. Phil Faix said the lineman's injured knee is in good condition. It would be normal, he added, if Stautner keeps up with a set of exercizes prescribed for him.

Halfback Lynn Chandnois, who suffered a shoulder injury in the Cleveland game in Ohio, should also be ready for training camp Dr. Faix said.

Pitchers Star As Redlegs Nip Detroit, 2 to 1

By UNITED PRESS

Johnny Klippstein and Camilo Pascual became the first pitchers to go nine innings in Grapefruit League play today as the major league managers stepped up their hurlers' schedules with an eye on opening-day assignments.

Klippstein didn't walk a batter and yielded only seven hits to give the Cincinnati Redlegs a 2-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers Friday while Pascual struck out 10 and scattered nine hits Friday night in hurling the Washington Senators to a 7-2 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Bob Buhl of the Milwaukee Braves and Tom Sturdivant of the New York Yankees also came up with powerful performances which indicated they'll be ready, if called upon, for opening-day hurling duties.

Allows Two Runs

Buhl allowed two runs and five hits in seven innings as the Braves scored a 4-3, 10-inning verdict over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Sturdivant walked only two and allowed three hits in six innings as the Yankees beat the Kansas City Athletics, 3-0.

Walt Moryn and Ed Winceniak homered in the 11th inning to lift the Chicago Cubs to a 5-2 triumph over the Baltimore Orioles.

Rookie outfielder Harry Anderson drove in three runs with a homer in the first inning and knocked in the winning tally with a sacrifice fly in the eighth to provide the Philadelphia Phillies with a 4-3 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Delaney Coasts To Easy Win In Mile Event

CLEVELAND (UP) — Ron Delany may not be a hero to most clock-watching track buffs, but the lanky Irishman still must be considered the most consistent miler in history.

Taking his own sweet time as usual, Delany won the featured mile in 4:10.4 in the Cleveland K of C meet Saturday night to complete his second unbeaten season on the indoor circuit. It was the 15th straight indoor mile victory for the Olympic 1,500 metter champion.

The Cleveland Arena crowd also also saw another unbeaten string extended when Ira Murchison posted his 15th straight indoor victory in the 50-yard dash. The Chicago sprinter was timed in 5.4 seconds.

In the two-mile run, Hungarian refugee Laszlo Tabori tired badly in the final quarter mile but still hung on to finish first in 8:54.6.

In addition to Delany, three other Olympic champions won their specialties. Charlie Jenkins captured the 600-yard run in 1:12, Lee Calhoun won the 50-yard high hurdles in 6.1 seconds, and Bob Richards soared 15 feet, 3½ inches to win the pole vault.

Arnie Sowell successfully defended his title in the 1,000-yard run with a 2:12.2 clocking, and Phil Reavis finished first in the high jump with a leap of six feet, seven inches.

Modern Heating Lifts Value of Home's Resale

After having gone through a pretty rough Winter, many people in Monessen and the Valley have come to the conclusion they must do something about their heating plant.

It may have served them many years but to keep the home heated up properly it must be replaced eventually.

That's where the services and products of the Monessen Heating & Roofing firm, 445 Schoonmaker, Phone MU 4-6313, comes in, for here is a firm that specializes in heating and offers you such fine equipment as the General Electric automatic gas furnace.

It pays you many times over to have good heating equipment in your home.

Modernization of a home plant will be reflected in the selling price of a used dwelling.

Although most owners do their improving for their own comfort and convenience, resale considerations are a major factor in a situation where millions of families are moving each year. Sprucing up a property before it is sold almost always is in order, it is explained, but major investments have to stand a test of examination as to prospective buyer's wants.

Because tastes differ and styles change, some items have to be considered more in the way of personal consumption expenditures than real investments. Here is why a modern heating plant is put in the investment category:

1. The need is absolutely basic, and the the heating system itself is made to adjust to the differences in wants of prospective users.

2. Because the heating system will be sold with the house, the selling expense, or commission, wil represent a smaller portion of the asset than is possible in almost any transaction outside the real estate field.

3. The improvement can be demonstrated instantly and effortlessly, and the guarantees going with it can be transferred.

4. The buyer can know approximately what his operating costs will be. This can be accomplished by merely showing past utility bills and current rate schedules.

5. The improvement upgrades an entire property and insures the buyer against trouble and loss in a period when he will be more than busy with other problems of getting relocated.

Penzoil Service At Bill Ross Service Station

You'll get fine Penzoil products plus experienced service when you drive your car into the Bill Ross Penzoil Service station, 111 Donner avenue in Monessen!

And that means a lot to you, Mr. Motorist, if you are interested in preserving your car, in keeping it in the best mechanical shape possible, and in enjoying good car performance.

An automobile today is prety rugged. It takes a good beating in all kinds of weather, by inexperienced drivers sometimes, and in general has to "have it" to survive.

But it does mean attention must be given it now and then by someone who is experienced in checking and servicing cards.

The Bill Ross Penzoil Service station has served Monesen and Valley motorists for many years. You are assured of the best of attention here at all times, and certainly you'll get top products for Pennzoil is known the world around.

This is also an official inspection station, body work is done, and accessories sold.

Right now as warmer weather is due why wouldn't it be a good idea to drive your automobile to the Bill Ross Penzoil Service station and have Mr. Ross lubricate it, drain old oil from the crankcase and put new Pennzoil in, check the battery, the radiator, and perhaps it would be adviseable to put new sparkplugs in.

Plugs should be changed in your car every 10,000 miles for better performance which means a properly-functioning motor burns less gas and oil.

John Says:

Nothing's so embarrassing as having to ask the customer how to open the hood—it's like telling him there weren't many fellas fool enough to buy that model.

ROGERS — Mrs. Lucy (Lucia), aged 70 years, 318 Wood street, Belle Vernon, died March 22, 1957 at 11:21 a. m. in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital. She is sutvived by her husband, James Rogers; a son, Joseph Rogers, of Clarksburg, W. Va.; six daughters, Mrs. Tony (Rose) Bitonti, of Belle Vernon, Mrs. Joseph (Mary) Tomaro, of Clarksburg, Mrs. John (Jennie) Forte, of Morgantown, W. Va., Mrs. Henry (Catherine) Caccamani, of Belle Vernon, Mrs. Pete (Virginia) Veitri, of Detroit, and Mrs. Steve (Sara Worry of Belle Vernon; 17 grandchildren; seven great grandchildren. Friends are being received at the Ferguson Funeral Home, Broad avenue, Belle Vernon, from 1 to 5 and 7 to 10 p. m. Funeral services will be held on Monday morning at 9:30 a. m. from St. Sebastian's R. C. Church, with the Very Rev. Henry Hange in charge. Interment will follow in Belle Vernon Cemetery. Shelby D. Ferguson, funeral director.

2 Card of Thanks

WILKES — We wish to thank the many thoughtful friends and neighbors who extended us kindness in our recent bereavement, the death of Milton Wilkes. The ministrations of the Rev. Vernon Bowers, floral tributes, expressions of sympathy, spiritual comfort, cars loaned for the funeral, and the aid of the pall bearers; as well as all those who assisted at the funeral and sent cards during our father's illness, will be remembered with gratitude.

Daughters, Marian Menefee, Mildred Geho and Evelyn Anderson.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and son, John Robert Wallace, who died one year ago tomorrow, March 24, 1956.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet to remember he who was here,
And who though absent, is just as dear.
Sadly missed by Wife, Son and Father

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Anderson, who died three years ago tomorrow, March 24, 1954.
We live today with memories
Of days when you were here.
We miss you still and always will
Throughout each day and year.
At night when all is silent
And sleep forsakes our eyes.
Our thoughts are in that lonely grave
Where our dear loved one lies.
Sadly missed by her Children, Grandchildren and Great Grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Rose Clark, who died 20 years ago tomorrow, March 24, 1937.
We lost a Mom with a heart of gold
Who is more to us than wealth untold.
Without farewell she fell asleep
With only memories for us to keep.
We have lost but God has gained
One of the best mothers the world contained.
Sadly missed by Daughter, Mrs. Laura Mae Otto, and Granddaughter

Fireman Dies of Field Fire Burns

McKEESPORT, Pa. (UP)—David Hoffman, 63, a volunteer fireman in nearby White Oak, died Friday at McKeesport Hospital of burns suffered a week ago while fighting a brush fire.

Hoffman suffered third degree burns last Saturday when trapped by flames when the wind shifted.

North America's native elk used to range over much of the United States and Canada. Indians called it "wapiti"; English colonials named it elk after Europe's big deer. As settlers slaughtered for meat and skin, the elk retreated westward. Like the bison, or buffalo, it barely escaped extinction.

Ship Racing To Get Mother Home for Burial

WASHINGTON (UP)—A merchant ship raced through the Indian Ocean today in an attempt to enable a heartbroken mother to reach the United States in time for her son's funeral.

The merchant ship — the Isthmian Line's Steel Chemist — stove to reach the Indian Ocean island of Mauritius in time to make connections with an Air France plane bound for Paris next Wednesday.

The race across the world was set off last Wednesday when George Dunn was stricken with leukemia in Philadelphia. Doctors said he was dying.

Dunn's sister, Mrs. Robert L. Hill of Davenport, Iowa, telegraphed Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), asking him to help bring home Dunn's mother—Mrs. E. C. Dunn of Crosby, Minn.

Mrs. Dunn was already at sea aboard the Steel Chemist bound from Penang, Malaya, to the Virgin Islands. At the same time Dunn's father, who was in Saudi Arabia, was contacted and prepared to fly home.

Dunn died Wednesday night. However, Humphrey's staff continued trying to arrange for Mrs. Dunn's return to enable her to attend her son's funeral.

Little Redstone Church Society Plans Activity

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Little Redstone Methodist Church held a recent meeting in the Ladies Aid hall. Thirty members attended.

Plans were made for a bake sale to be held next Saturday at 11 a. m. in the hall. Mrs. Henry Stimmell, Mrs. Stanley Coldren and Mrs. Samuel Waddington were named to head the committee.

Mrs. Minerva Francis was named to send a flood donation from the Society.

Mrs. Kate B. Coldren, president, was honored during the social hour with a birthday surprise on her 80th anniversary. A cake was baked by her daughter, Mrs. Jesse Brown.

Hostesses were Mrs. Jane Vestrat and Mrs. Mary Jane Tisot.

Daryl Morgan Is Honored at Shower

A personal shower honoring bride-elect Daryl Morgan, of Fairhope, was given by her sister, Mrs. Lorraine Manown, Wednesday evening at the Manown home.

The guest list included Nancy Wilson, Georgia Pudish, Barbara Butler, Dolores Baran, Thelma Moats and Janet Yates.

Miss Morgan will marry Raymond Moody, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Moody, of Main street, Fayette City.

Visit Brother at Washington Home

Lee Ridgway, of South High street, Fayette City, and his brother, the Rev. James Ridgway, of Perryopolis, are visiting this week with their brother, Commander Richard Ridgway and family near Washington, D. C.

Commander Ridgway is leaving within a few months for a Mediterranean cruise. He is stationed on an aircraft carrier.

Lions Club in Safety Talk Here Thursday

A safety talk by Ernest Weaver was made Thursday evening at the regular meeting of the Lions Club in the Methodist Church.

Weaver, a club member, had pictures and posters to illustrate a talk of dangers in the home, industry and on the highway.

The meeting was presided over by Richard Richardson, president. Singing was led by Fred Weightman and the Rev. Harry W. Beveridge, Methodist Church pastor, gave the invocation.

Announcement was made that the observance of Charter Night would be held Thursday, April 18 at Twin Coaches. Weightman and Howard McCrory will be in charge. The club will be 13 years old on April 19.

George Troth was named program chairman for the April 4 meeting which will be held in the Methodist Church. The annual broom sale will be held Thursday, May 2.

Your Health—

Physicals for Women Over 40

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Are you a woman over 40? Then this column is especially for you.

I've always urged annual medical checkups for everyone. After the age of 40, however, this becomes particularly important.

There are many diseases which are likely to have their beginning in the middle years, although they generally are thought of as developing late in life.

Some of them are diabetes, cancer and diseases of the kidney, heart and blood vessels.

Seldom do these insidious diseases present any symptoms until they are fairly well developed.

Through annual, or even semi-annual physical examinations, your doctor can detect such disorders before they become really serious.

When I say physical examination, I mean a thorough checkup.

For a woman past 40 this should include:

An examination of your entire body, a blood and laboratory test and a test for diabetes or particular attention to the pelvis are in order, a Papanicolaou vaginal smear test to detect any indication of cancer, blood and urine tests and an electrocardiogram if your physician thinks it is advisable.

Your doctor also will want a complete and honest report on your personal history, including the state of your health, any recent medical attention and information on marital, sexual and family matters.

I want to emphasize, as I have so many times before, that you must be completely frank in giving this information to your physician.

So make an appointment right now before you forget about it. Get that annual checkup soon.

Question and Answer

E. S.: Would trembling, sickness of the stomach, fainting and irritability be symptoms of a nervous breakdown?

Answer: These symptoms may occur in psychoneurosis commonly known as a nervous breakdown.
